Royal performance for Hi-Steppers

by Melissa Avery

Her Royal Highness, The Princess of Wales, as Patron of Covent Garden, extends an invitation to the American All-Star Dance Team to perform at Covent Garden, the platform for the best of London's open-air performances in the heart of the theatre district, November 23, 1993, 1 PM.

After a lot of hard work and the All-Star Competition at Southern University, three girls from Hinds Community College have been chosen to be a part of the American All-Star Dance Team. On November 20, along with other girls from all over the United States, they will board a plane to England.

Staying at the Cumberland Hotel in the middle of London's theatre district, they will have plenty of time to see the sights of London between grueling rehearsals. All that week they will be sharing meals, touring through Central London, and spending hours practicing before the performance.

The three talented girls chosen from our own campus are: Stacey McCullough and Sharon Barrior from Jackson, and Stephanie Dent from Vicksburg. Out of the seven Hi-Steppers involved in the Competition this summer, three were selected, which shows the high standards Mrs. Anna Bee sets for the Hi-Steppers. The basis of the judge's decision rested mostly on "outstanding attitude, exemplary character, and dance ability".

The reputation Mrs. Bee has achieved along with her Hi-Steppers has been justly earned. They are the third oldest dance group in the United States and are compelled to maintain excellence through hours of hard work and stunning performances.

Lendon Players plan production

By Brian Jantz

The 1993 Fall season for the Lendon Players is about to get underway with their production of Smoke on the Mountain, by Connie Ray and Alan Bailey. The production is set for November 3-6.

The setting is one Saturday night in June, 1938 at Mount Pleasant Baptist Church. America was in the last stages of the Great Depression, and religion had reached its organizational peak. Because of the Great Depression, Mount Pleasant's principal industries, which are farming and pickle production, are beginning to lay off workers at an unusually quick rate because of the collapse of a nation and its economy.

In order to maintain their sanity, the town holds a Saturday night sing by gospel families. The gospel becomes the much needed and highly appreciated entertainment for the families of the Mount Pleasant community.

Providing the entertainment are the Sanders, a family out to end a five-year hiatus from the gospel-singing circuit. They are a family of song and rejoicing that brings peace and harmony to a otherwise tense and uptight town.

"Smoke on the Mountain" will run nightly at 7:30 p.m. in the Raymond Campus Brooks Theater. The show is free to Hinds students and staff with a valid I.D. The cost for adults is $5.00, and for children and other students it is $3.00.

The production will also be performed in the American College Theatre Festival, which will be held on the Jeff Davis campus of MS. Gulf Coast Community College in Gulfport. The production will run at 8 p.m. on November 12. The show is directed by Denise Halbach, with David Hawkins as technical director, and Robert Lee as musical director.

Also performing with Hinds will be eight other colleges and universities, who will display their talents as well.

For ticket information to the Raymond Campus performances, contact the Speech and Theatre Department at 857-3266.

HCC Beauty Pageant applications available

The Hinds Beauty Pageant is scheduled for Wednesday, November 17, at 7:30 PM in Cain Auditorium on the Raymond Campus.

Entry forms for the pageant are available in the Public Relations Office in the Student Union Building or from Mrs. Anna Bee in the Women's Gym. The forms must be returned by November 5 to the Public Relations Office.

Contestants who enter the pageant must make all rehearsals prior to the night of competition. Any Hinds Coed who attends classes on the Raymond, Jackson or Rankin Campus may enter the pageant.

Pageant contestants will be judged on Beauty only and the top five selected will be featured in the 1994 yearbook The Eagle. The pageant, which is sponsored by the yearbook staff, is directed by Hi-Stepper director Mrs. Anna Bee. Staging and lighting will be done by the Circle K Club.

Contestants wishing to find out more information about evening gown wear should contact Mrs. Bee in the Women's Gym.

New endowed Hinds Scholarships awarded

Three new endowed scholarships have been awarded this fall through the Hinds Development Foundation, according to Jackie Granberry, director of Development.

An endowed scholarship is awarded when the scholarship fund reaches the endowment status of $10,000. The amount of an endowed scholarship is determined by the amount of interest the principal earns. Endowed scholarships are awarded only from the interest, with the principal remaining intact.

Recipients for all Development Foundation scholarships have been selected for the 1993-94 academic year.

Jobie Harris/Zig Ziglar and Jim El Harris/Zig Ziglar

Two of the new scholarships, the Coach Jobie Harris/Zig Ziglar Endowed Scholarship and the Jim El

Harris/Zig Ziglar Endowed Scholarship, were funded by a seminar given by Ziglar in January, 1992, in Jackson. Ziglar, the nationally famous motivational speaker, was a student of Coach Harris while attending Hinds in 1943.

Coach Harris came to Hinds in 1930 as athletic director and coached and taught history until his retirement in 1970. Mrs. Harris came to Hinds in 1946 to teach high school English, and began teaching college English when returning World War II veterans began attending Hinds.

Scott Nelson

The Scott Nelson Endowed Scholarship was established as a memorial in December, 1982, by his parents and friends. His father is Cliff Nelson, Raymond Campus coordinator of academic counseling and testing.

HINDS COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

Returning to School

It is that time of the year again, in which the autumn leaves fall upon the summer green grass that took most of the summer to grow, covering the ground and in turn indicating that summer is almost gone. It is also that time of the year in which we find ourselves waking up to barely greet the rising sun, and telling ourselves to get back in bed because we hope we're only dreaming.

But, in reality, it is that time of the year in which we must get up and face reality, the reality that school is finally here and by now know what we have to do. For some of the students, it means that we have to get back to our old routine of getting up, going to class, and then going home or to work early. For the freshmen, it means learning all over again in a totally new school with a totally new atmosphere. By this I mean you are going to eventually wake up and smell the coffee.

Some of you (freshmen) are going to find that you have a lot of time on your hands, while others of you are going to wish you had a little more of it. Some will have the desire to drop a class, while others will be the daringly eager to learn type, and will want to add to their already over-crammed schedule.

No matter which position you (Freshmen) find yourselves in, you will have to learn time management. Fortunately, it isn't one of the classes in which you find yourself baring the impatience of waiting for the bell to ring, or the teacher to tell you good-bye. Instead, it is something that you (freshmen), are going to have to find in yourselves. It is essential for your success here at Hinds, and also your enjoyment. Think of the fun your going to have on the weekend or during the week, but also remember the homework due the next day or the paper due next Monday.

Find your place at Hinds, get used to it, and then buckle down and study. Take time to smell the coffee, but also take time to drink it. Another words, have fun, but also find your priorities. Once you have found them, manage the time it will take to succeed at them, and then you will have smooth sailing.

OPINION POLL: New students make adjustments

MARGARET THOMAS - A Pre-Law Major, replied by saying, "I've had to adjust to locating the different buildings, but the Instructors, Staff, and Students have been very helpful."

TERRI ECKMAN - An Elementary Education Major stated, "My biggest adjustment was getting used to studying with no one pressuring me and making me study, like my mom and dad."

STEVEN WALLACE - Commented by saying, "I guess adjusting to all the free time I have to do things like sports, spending time with friends and going out."

"Presidential Speaking"

by
Dr. Clyde Muse

We would like to welcome our returning students, entering freshmen, and other first-time students to the 1993 fall semester of the Hinds Community College District. We trust that you will experience a unique and most pleasant educational experience here at Hinds. We feel that you will find our faculty and staff most deserving of its reputation for being dedicated, efficient, eager to serve, and concerned with the needs of our students while providing quality educational experiences for each student.

The approximately 13,000 student enrollment this fall makes the college one of the largest institutions of higher learning in the state. It appears at this time that our enrollment will be about the same as last year. However, we do show a 3 percent increase in technical student enrollment. We certainly appreciate the confidence that our students have placed in us by enrolling in our college. Many Mississippians are discovering the fact that they can cut the cost of higher education dramatically by starting at a community college.

The Hinds Community College District consists of four campuses - Raymond, Utica, Jackson, Rankin, and the Vicksburg-Warren County Branch. We are extremely proud of our student body and the contributions made by our students on our campuses, on the campuses of other institutions, and in the world of work.

Last year for the first time in the history of national competition, we had two Phi Theta Kappa All-American scholars. Michael McMillin was selected as First Team All-American and Jean Sebrén as Second Team All-American.

Mississippi pioneered the community college movement nationwide. The community college is a uniquely American institution. It is the institution that sits in a position of transition. More than any other institution, it has a built-in natural relationship with working America.

This coming year we anticipate that we will receive from Hinds, Rankin, Warren, and Claiborne counties approximately $4.1 million for capital improvement projects. Most of these funds will be used to pay existing bonded indebtedness.

Last year the Hinds County Board of Supervisors added additional millage of approximately $3.5 million to retire the bonds for the Nursing/Allied Health Center Annex. I am pleased to report that the construction of the Annex has been completed and Open House is scheduled for September 19, 1993, at 2 PM. Another project, the new cafeteria on the Raymond Campus, was completed last year.

The assistance of approximately $1.7 million a year from the state for the past three fiscal years for renovation and repair has been very helpful with various projects throughout the district.

The President's office and the offices of the Vice President for Business, Personnel, and Fringe Benefits will be moving to the former home of the President. This move will probably take place around the middle of September.

I would like to express appreciation to all of the people who have had a part in the improvement of our physical facilities. No doubt, our campuses are the most beautiful and provide an atmosphere conducive to learning. I am proud of the wide variety of programs and services being provided to our students.

Your student officials have been meeting and planning activities for the opening of this session. I am tremendously impressed by the work of your leaders and feel that they have some exciting plans for students for the coming year. I would challenge each of you to work with your elected student leaders by becoming involved and supporting these activities.

Special congratulations are due to the football cheerleaders and Ernie the Eagle for their outstanding achievements at the 1993 Universal Cheerleaders Association competition. Honors received included the Leadership Award, first place in Fight Song, second place in Cheer, and fourth place in Chant. Also, Ernie the Eagle received the Superior Mascot Trophy.

At Hinds, athletic competition and achievement are strong. The most recent evidence of this is the 1992-93 state championships which

Eagles roll over Coahoma 45-6

by Jeff Magruder

Talk to any football coach and he will tell you that the key to success starts with your defense and that was most certainly evident during the Hinds vs. Coahoma game September 3. The Eagle defense forced the Tigers into eight turnovers, held them to only 198 yards on the day, and defeated Coahoma 45-6.

The first of Coahoma's turnovers came on the very first play of the game when Hinds linebacker Ronnie Taylor intercepted the ball and ran it back 29-yards for the TD. Chris Pierce added the point after and Taylor's TD gave Hinds its first points 14 seconds into the game and set a trend for the rest of the game.

Two of the other eight turnovers also resulted in touchdowns which included a Liron Thomas interception on the Tigers third possession and also a Johnny Kelly fumble recovery in the fourth period. Other turnovers for the Eagles included five interceptions, two by Earnest King, one by Liron Thomas, Enrico Banks and Malcolm Williams.

The first offensive TD for Hinds came with 3:57 remaining in the second period when Hinds quarterback Damian Slaughter connected on a 26-yard pass to Stacey Garrett. Chris Pierce followed with point after. To cap the Eagles scoring in the second period Pierce kicked a 24-yard field goal with 2:23 left the first half.

The only bright spot in the game for Tigers came just before the half when they drove the field and scored on a 20-yard Jamahl Burns touchdown pass to Twan West. The Tigers went for the 2-point conversion but failed.

With the opening of the second period it was De Ja Vu for Hinds when Stacey Garrett ran the ball back 46-yards on the opening play for a touchdown. With the point after by Pierce the Eagle lead grew to 31-6. The last of the Eagles offensive scoring came with six minutes remaining in the game when Lee Ragsdale ran the ball in from the 1-yard line for the TD with Pierce adding the point after.

The Eagle defense muzzled the Tigers and held them to a - 42 yards rushing and 240 yards in the air. Hinds offense on the day connected for a total of 286 yards, 256 rushing and 30 passing.

GARRETT SCORES - Stacey Garrett of Roanoke, Alabama, a running back for the Hinds Community College Eagles, made a 46-yard touchdown run on the opening kickoff of the second half during the Hinds vs. Coahoma game. The Eagles defeated the Tigers 45-6 in the season opener at Raymond. (Hinds photo by Wade Grant).

Wildcats defeat Eagles

The Hinds Community College Eagles lost their first South Division game 30-21 to the Wildcats of Pearl River Community College.

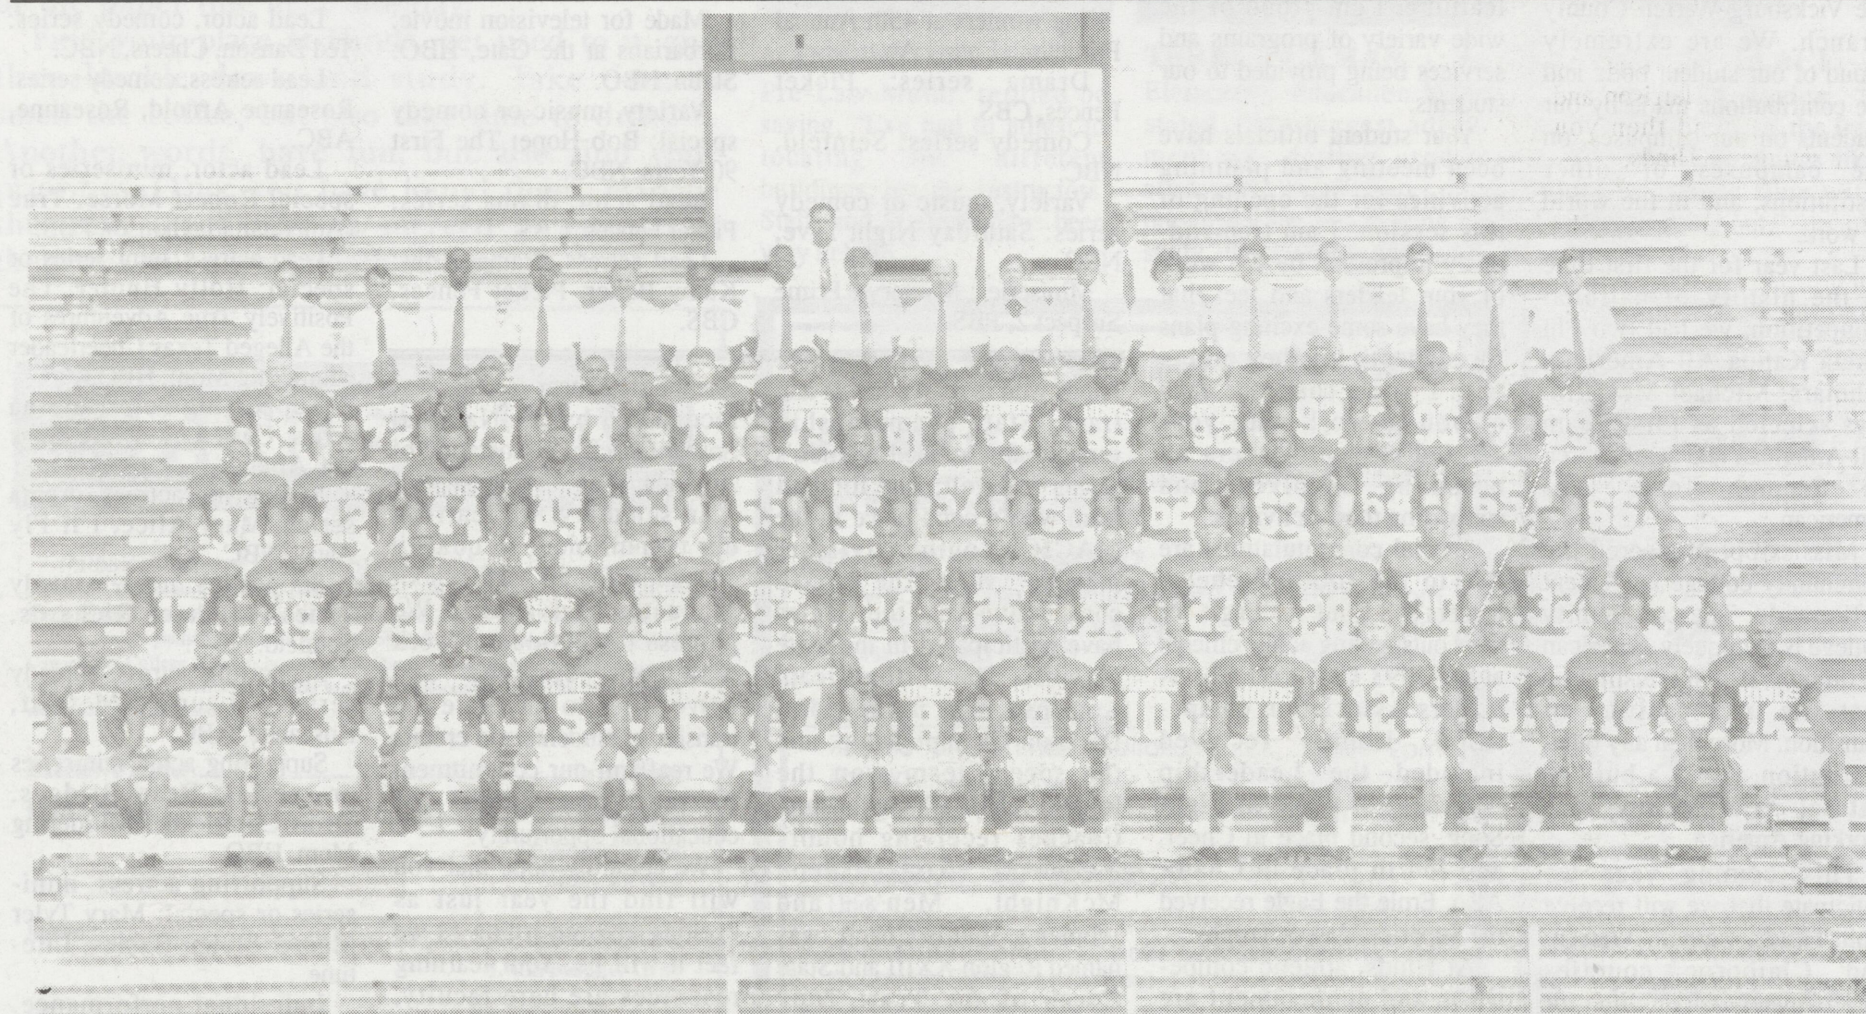

The Eagles were leading the Wildcats 21-0 through the first half but during the second half Pearl River came back strong and beat Hinds. The Eagles lost three fumbles and were intercepted twice which helped the Wildcats move to a 2-0 record while Hinds moved to 1-1.

The Wildcats scored on a 4-yard run by Bobby Thaxton, a 2 yard run by Chris Ryan, a 45-yard punt return by Sammy Williams and a 43-yard interception by Rodney Hathorne. Brandon Murray added the extra points for the Wildcats and a 40-yard field goal as well.

Hinds scored on 2 and 17-yard runs by Stacey Garrett and a 5 yard run by Kentress Hampton. Chris Pierce added the extra points for the Eagles.

Soccer team winning

By J. Christopher Gray

Pacing the sideline, telling his team to stay calm, Soccer Coach Tom Shepherd watched his Eagles score first at the 32:57 mark in the first period against Young Harris Community College.

Hinds blasted Young Harris 4-0 in their opener Friday, September 10. Hinds took a 3-0 lead at half time. Brian Lovertich added the only score of the second half. The Eagles played excellent defense throughout the game. Add in several superb stops by goalkeepers Jay Harrison and Jim Pearson, and then you have a shutout by Hinds.

"We had a lot of improvement out of our backup goalkeeper Jim Pearson. He did a real good job." Coach Shepherd remarked.

After going 3-11-1 last season, returning only four players and only one starter, things are starting to look up for Eagles' soccer. Center/midfielder Eric Johnson had this to say about the team and the win, "Today we really worked the ball around a lot better than the last game. I think with each game we are improving and getting to know each other better."

"We've got along way to go before we get better, and start playing as a team. We just need to practice harder and get in better shape. It always helps to win," said Jay Harrison.

With three Top 20 teams on this years schedule, Richland College, Tyler Community College, and Andrew Community College, things look tough for the Eagles. However, Coach Shepherd feels that his team will be as good as anyone they play.

"The two games we play in the district tournament will determine whether we make in to the national tournament or not. The goal is to get past the district to the national tournament. We've never done that before." Coach Shepherd commented.

"I'm very pleased with the quality of players we have this year. I believe that if they do the work hard, and I'm able to coach them successfully, I believe they can be a very, very, good team, and a very competitive team. We are definitely a lot closer than we were this time last year." Coach Shepherd concluded.

In recent soccer games the Eagles defeated the Choctaws of Mississippi College 5-2 but lost to Tyler Community College of Texas 6-0 and to Richland Community College 3-1.

The Eagles record now moves to 3-3 for the season as they host Tyler on Friday, September 24 at 5PM and Dekalb Community College on Sunday, September, 26 at 12 noon.

Eagles shutout Northeast Tigers

Taking a 27-0 victory over the Northeast Tigers the Hinds Community College Eagles move to a overall 2-1 record and are 1-1 in the South Division of the JUCO league.

The Eagles had their problems during the game with three touchdowns being called back due to penalties while another TD was fumbled in the endzone and was recovered by the Tigers' Chris McNeal for a touchback.

The Eagles first score came on a 34-yard field goal by Chris Pierce of Pearl. With 8:25 remaining in the first period Lee Ragsdale of Pelahatchie ran the ball in from the 1-yard line with Chris Pierce adding the point after.

The third period Hinds put another 10 points on the board with yet another 34-yard field goal by Pierce and then quarterback Damian Slaughter of Vicksburg threw a 7-yard pass to Dexter Thomas of Jackson for the touchdown. Pierce added the point after and the Eagles led the Tigers 20-0 at the end of the third.

Hinds' biggest play of the game came in the fourth period when Johnny Walker of Tampa, Florida made an 80-yard touchdown run with Pierce adding the extra point to give the Eagles their 27-0 win.

Hinds had a total of 287 yards, 227 rushing and 60 passing while the Tigers of Northeast had a total of 111, 14 rushing and 97 passing. The Eagles had six penalties for 60-yards while Northeast had four for 35-yards.

Hinds Sports Hall of Fame

James Taylor "J.T." Monk, Jr. Class of 1947, Football

Monk began his winning streak at Forest Hill High School, where his football team won all the regular season games in 1943 and 1944. At Hinds, he helped the Eagles to two winning seasons. In 1946, the Eagles won the Laurel Lions Bowl and Monk was named All State Tackle and Little All American.

At the end of that football season, Monk was recruited by Tulane and Mississippi State universities. At that point he decided to concentrate his energies on his engineering studies instead of athletics.

To pay for his education, Monk worked as a laborer for a Jackson asphalt and dirt contractor during the summers, and in January 1947 he transferred from Hinds to Mississippi State School of Mechanical Engineering where he graduated in 1950.

Inducted into the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers directly out of college, he served as an instructor in diesel engine major repair, state-side, during his Korean War tour of duty.

From 1952, his civilian career advanced from project engineer and assistant chief engineer with the M. R. S. Manufacturing Company, in Flora, Mississippi, to his current position as director of engineering at Taylor Machine Works, in Louisville, Mississippi. This job requires extensive domestic and foreign travel.

Early in his career at Taylor he played softball for 10 years, and then coached Little League Baseball for four years.

He was instrumental in founding Winston Academy, and served for two years as president of the Winston County Education Foundation.

Monk and his family reside in Louisville, and operate a 400 acre cattle ranch. In 1988, the Winston County Chamber of Commerce named his wife, Gwen, Winston County Woman of the Year for her civic activities, and, in 1989, named him Winston County Cattleman of the Year.

Gwen Post White, Class of 1956, Basketball, Tennis

Gwen Post was a starter for her Clinton High School basketball team for five years, and was All State until her 1955 graduation. In addition, she was a member of the State Championship Relay Team in track.

Cramming two years of college at Hinds into one, attending from the summer of 1955 through the summer of 1956, she also packed in as much playing as she could. She lettered as a member of the tennis team and played for the Lady Eagles basketball team before being named Most Athletic in the fall, 1956 Who's Who. At Mississippi College, she continued to play basketball, graduating with honors in 1958, and receiving her master's degree in 1963.

For the past 34 years, White has had an illustrious career as an athlete and coach, with many honors, championships and titles. She has been a member of several state championship teams and has also been coach of several district, south, and state championship teams. Her coaching success includes that of her track teams at Clinton High School, 1960, 1961, and 1963 taking three state titles. Her accomplishments during this period led to her being named as one of the Outstanding Young Women in America for 1963.

Since then, she coached for six years at Canton, four years at McCluer Academy, and ten years at Belhaven College. She has been in her present position coaching at Northwest Rankin Academy since 1984. She was inducted into the Mississippi Association of Coaches' Hall of fame in 1990.

White and her husband, Melvin, reside in Bolton.

Johnny Walden Hines, Class of 1963, Basketball, Track, Tennis, Football manager

There were no basketball scholarships to Hinds at the time, so a football manager's job scholarship was arranged to make it possible for Johnny Hines to play roundball with the Eagles.

He gave both endeavors his all, lettering as manager and as a basketball player. He also lettered in track and tennis. He was All-State Basketball for two years, state champion in track, setting a new record for mile relay, and state champion in men's tennis doubles.

At Belhaven College he lettered for two years each in basketball and tennis; and, in 1964 was named Basketball Most Valuable Player and Best Free Throw Shooter, in 1965, making him 12th in the nation NAIA. He played Number One Doubles in tennis. After receiving his associate's degree in business at Hinds, Hines went for his bachelor of arts degree in history and education at Belhaven and received his master in education degree in school administration at Mississippi College in 1972. He took additional graduate work at Northeast Louisiana University. From 1965 to 1972 his career included teaching and coaching at Coahoma County High School, where his boys' basketball team won the state tournament and, in 1968, as assistant coach, his football team finished 10-1 and won the Cleveland Lions Bowl. Then at Utica and Terry High schools, his 1972 girls' track team won the state championship. From 1972-77 he served as junior high and senior high school principal at Terry High School.

In 1973 he was named Track Coach of the Year for the State of Mississippi, and he served on various boards and committees for the Mississippi Association of Coaches. In 1974, he was named one of the Outstanding Young Men in America.

He served as principal for two years at Pearl High School before taking a brief hiatus to work in sales. Then in 1983, he resumed his school administration path in several Louisiana elementary and high schools (1986 Coach of the Year District 3AAAA, Girls' Basketball, West Monroe High School) until 1989 when he took on his current position as high school principal at West Ouachita High School in Ouachita Parish.

In 1989 he was named local and regional High School Principal of the Year and was one of six finalists for Louisiana High school principal of the Year.

Over the years Hines has held office in professional, academic and athletic organizations, and currently is president of District 2AAAA Schools.

Hines and his wife, Connie, have three grown children, Ricky, Cindy, and Dakin, and reside in Monroe, Louisiana. His brother, Minor, was named to the HCC Sports Hall of Fame in 1990.

Jack F. Fulkerson, Class of 1950 (Ag. H.S. 1948)

Fulkerson's sports talents showed up at Dobyns-Bennett High School in Kingsport, Tennessee, after his tour of duty with the U.S. Navy, 1942-45. At Dobyns-Bennett, in 1945, he lettered in football, basketball, track and baseball. After transferring to Hinds Agricultural High School for his senior year, he stayed to play football for the Eagles, lettering for two years, and was All Conference and All State. He lettered at the University of Southern Mississippi, 1951 and 1952, before receiving his B. S. degree in Science, Health, Physical Education and Recreation. He was a Green Bay Packers draft pick in 1952, but chose a non-athletic career path. He spent two years as director of the Erwin, Tennessee YWCA; six years in heavy trucking sales and service; 21 years providing service to southern Mississippi counties in the commercial egg program of Central-Soya, of Simpson County, and then, from 1981 to his 1985 retirement, he was a circuit rider with the Mississippi Rural Water Association, assisting in construction, maintenance, and organization, and directing seminars on water purification and operation of rural water systems.

Fulkerson has been active in local, state and national chapters of the Rural Water Association, and served the state chapter as president from 1977-83. He is a charter member of the Magee Chapter of the Optimist Clubs of America, and, with his wife, Ruth, is an active member of the First United Methodist Church of Magee. The Fulkersons (Continued on page 7)

As a stand-out in football, basketball and baseball, 1925-1926, at Jackson Central Junior High School, Dick Foster was recruited to play for Yazoo County Agricultural High School. His recruiter was Coach J. R. Harris, who came to be Hinds' own Coach Jobie Harris, a few years later.

During the period 1927-30, Foster was known as one of the best all-around athletes in the state; and in 1928, despite attending a rural school that received little press coverage, he was voted Honorable Mention All State. Operating as a triple threat tailback in a single wing offense, he played nearly every minute on offense and defense for three years.

In a single game, he once ran for 9 touchdowns and dropkicked 10 extra points, and in his senior year he won three games with dropkicked field goals.

As a basketball player, his quickness and exceptional leaping abilities designated him the starting forward on the team each year. In addition, his skills in baseball as a third baseman attracted two contract offers from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Instead of going into pro baseball, Foster chose to follow Coach Harris to Hinds Junior College to play football. At Hinds he continued to excel as a major workhorse on offense as a running back and as a mainstay on defense as a defensive back. He received All State Honorable Mention honors again in 1931-32, and, after graduating from Hinds began playing semi-pro baseball. He achieved All State honors and All Tournament honors on several occasions.

Although he did not run track, he was billed as "one of the fastest men in the state," by the Jackson Daily News.

"Jobie" Harris says, "He was one of the best small athletes I have ever known. He could drop kick a football 50-60 yards through the goal post. He was a great passer and kicker, but, also, his speed gave him a good advantage as a top notch baseball player."

After college he continued to be involved in sports, coaching Little League Baseball and inspiring three sons to become high school athletes. In addition, he maintained a fast pitch and slow pitch baseball career that lasted well into his sixties.

Foster is married to the former Pearl Grace Kelly, and five of their six children, as well as two daughters-in-law and two sons-in-law, are Hinds alumni.

Glen Deweese Named Alumnus of the Year

Glen Deweese, chairman/CEO of Super Stop convenience stores and former president pro tem of the Mississippi State Senate, is the 1933 Hinds Community College Alumnus of the Year.

"Glen Deweese is one of the outstanding businessmen in our state," says Hinds president Dr. Clyde Muse. "We at Hinds are extremely pleased to count him among our alumni."

Deweese, a native of Neshoba County, went to work for McKesson-Robbins, a Jackson wholesale drug firm, after he graduated from Philadelphia High School. During those three years in Jackson, he met and married Janice Thomas.

A few days after their wedding, Deweese received his draft notice, and five weeks later began his two-year service with the U. S. Army.

"It was a good education in itself," he says, but when he returned home and went to work for the Coca Cola Bottling Company of Jackson as a route salesman, he decided to further his education. He enrolled as a night student with the help of the G. I. Bill.

"After I was married and had served in the Army, my need for education dawned on me," he says, "and I went three years at night from 1956 through 1958, to get two years of education."

One of his best memories of Hinds is of a class taught by Coach Jobie Harris, who retired from Hinds in 1970 and lives in South Jackson.

"He wasn't the typical teacher," Deweese recalls, "but he had a way of getting his points across. He had a way of making you want to go to his class. He was an outstanding teacher and person."

After receiving his associate degree at Hinds, Deweese opened a convenience store on Old Canton Road for another man on a split profit basis, setting a path for himself based on his father's days as a sharecropper.

He then made what he considers his biggest financial decision and risk. He bought a neighborhood supermarket in West Jackson and moved his family into a house that went with the store.

"I borrowed enough money to buy the store and paid for it in five years," he says. "I had an opportunity to sell it, and that's when I came to Meridian and opened six convenience stores."

In 1966, Jitney Jungle of Jackson franchised six Jitney jr. stores to Deweese and to Dr. Douglas Robertson, his dentist and partner. The first store was located on Old Highway 80 West and is no longer in operation.

Glen Deweese

One year later, they bought five additional stores in Meridian. This gave them 11 stores and a greater base for covering expenses.

"We began to get a little prosperity and later opened stores in Jackson through Jitney Jungle under the franchise name Jr. Food Mart," Deweese says.

In 1980, the company was allowed out of the franchise through Jitney Jungle, and changed its name to Super Stop. There are now 59 operating stores in Meridian, Jackson, Greenville, and Birmingham, with 260 employees.

He says their philosophy continues to be that "we believe that the customer deserves to have a good employee serving them. The customer is the most important person in this organization."

"We've put everything we've made back into the business, but we're not diversified," Deweese says. "I don't need a yacht and a lot of things people spend money on for themselves."

Deweese ran for a seat in the State Senate in 1975, and says that the inspiration came from his father, Carl Deweese, who served 12 years each on the Philadelphia Board of Aldermen and the Neshoba

County Board of Supervisors. He was elected to the Senate and began his 16 years of service representing parts of Meridian and Lauderdale County, in January, 1976.

After one term in the Senate, former Lt. Gov. Brad Dye appointed Deweese chairman of the Appropriations Committee, one of the most powerful committees in the Senate. In 1986, he was elected by his fellow senators to the highest position in the Senate, president pro tempore and third in the line of succession to the governor. He was re-elected to this position for a second four-year term in 1988.

Dye states, "Glen Deweese is a man of great courage and integrity. I worked with him for twelve years in the Senate. He is a family man, a businessman, and certainly has been a tremendous asset to the Legislature as a public servant."

After losing the 1991 election, Deweese says, "I went home and went to work. I never had any illusions that the Capitol wouldn't run without me. You get there with a vote and you leave with a vote."

A highlight of his political career was the Education Reform Act of 1982. He believes this act became a vehicle, steering education in a new direction.

He says, "Today, the efforts of the community colleges and universities continue heading in that right direction, although Mississippi doesn't have the tax base for adequate funding. However, I wouldn't live anywhere else."

Deweese has been active in the National Association of Convenience Stores (NACS), for 25 years, serving on the board of directors for 15 years and as chairman of the board in 1990. NACS represents over 75,000 stores and 1500 companies nationwide.

He is past director of the Meridian Chamber of Commerce, past member of the board of directors for the Magnolia Speech School for the Deaf, in Jackson, and past member of the boards of directors of the Meridian Industrial Foundation. He is a 32nd Degree Mason, a Shriner, a sustaining member of the Boy Scouts of America, and a member of the boards of directors of the Great Southern National Bank and the Retail Association of America.

"As a legislator and community volunteer, Glen has given a considerable amount of time as an advocate for quality education in Mississippi," Muse says.

Deweese is currently serving a three-year term on the Hinds Community College Development Foundation Board of Directors. He also supports his local community college and university, Meridian Community College and the Meridian Branch of Mississippi State University.

"I am proud of my ties with Hinds," he states, "especially when I see the growth it has maintained and the accomplishments it has made for community colleges. One of my real ties to Hinds is Clyde Muse. He was a devoted superintendent of the Meridian School System, and one of the strongest educational leaders in the community. He has been a real asset to education at Hinds and the State of Mississippi."

The Deweeses are active members of the First Baptist Church of Meridian. Their son, Doug, attends seminary at Amory University in Atlanta, and with his wife, Bet, have three children.

Deweese will be honored as Hinds Alumnus of the Year on October 9 during the Alumni Luncheon at 12:30 PM in the Faculty Dining Room of the new Raymond Campus Cafeteria. He will also be recognized at half time during the October 7 Homecoming football game which begins at 6 PM in Renfro Stadium. For more information, please contact the Hinds Development office, 857-3363.

D.G. "Sonny" Fountain Receives Alumni Service Award

D. G. "Sonny" Fountain, a member of the Hinds Community College Board of Trustees, has been named the 1993 HCC Alumni Service Award recipient.

Since joining the Board in 1977, Fountain has served on the construction committee, advising the Board on the electrical contracting aspect of the district's construction and renovation activities.

As president of Fountain Construction Company, Inc., Fountain's expertise has been "extremely valuable," says Dr. Clyde Muse, president of the College.

"He's a tremendous resource to the College with his education, training, and background, and his knowledge of construction and engineering," he says. "With the extensive building programs at our different locations in recent years, we have relied heavily on him; and he always gives graciously of his time and the resources of his company to the College."

Jackie Granberry, director of development for Hinds, says, "Mr. Fountain has sacrificed hundreds of thousands of dollars to be on the College Board of Trustees. As a member of the Board, his company can't bid on anything associated with the College. I think that proves his dedication to serving Hinds."

Fountain has been interested in the electrical contracting component of construction since his high school and college days when he worked part-time as an apprentice to an electrician. When he graduated from Forest Hill High School, he majored in physics at the University of Southern Mississippi and at Millsaps College, and later joined the U. S. Air Force where he served as an instructor of electronics.

His background led him to join with a partner in 1957 to start an electrical contracting business, Chaney-Fountain Electric Company. In 1964, he bought his partner's share of the business and the company was known as Fountain Electric Company, Inc., until recently when the name was changed to Fountain Construction Company, Inc.

Fountain's sons, Brad and Chris, joined the business as they graduated from college.

Brad, with a degree in construction technology from the University of Southern Mississippi, is vice president of general construction, while Chris, with a degree in electrical engineering from Mississippi State University, is vice president of the electrical division.

Today the business employs some 450 people in a wide range of jobs from office clerical to construction maintenance to electrical construction.

Fountain's professional affiliations include membership in the National Electrical Contractors Association, where he has held all offices in the local chapter and served for four years as national vice president. He has long been active with NECA's national labor arbitration board and legislative liaison committee, and currently is serving a term as Governor for NECA's Mississippi Chapter.

Fountain has served on the board of the Andrew Jackson Council of the Boy Scouts of America and holds the Silver Beaver Medal, the highest honor that Scouting can bestow. He has membership on the regional board of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), and the executive committee of the Board of Trustees for the Lexington Theological Seminary in Lexington, Kentucky. In addition, he is a past president of the Jackson Metropolitan YMCA and is on the boards of the Salvation Army and Southern Christian Services.

Fountain is married to the former Margaret Ann Bradley, and in addition to sons, Brad and Chris, they have a daughter, Cindy Milton, a homemaker and a 1990 alumna of Hinds. The Fountains have two grandchildren. The family are active members of Covenant Christian Church.

Marie Hull Gallery director, Gayle McCarty, has uncovered an unexpected source of art work for the first Gallery exhibit of the 1993-94 season, September 1 - 30.

"We have many people working for the College, in non-art capacities, who exercise their artistic talents in their spare time," says McCarty.

"Some are serious artists and crafts people, and others are 'Sunday painters,'" she says, "and the work you will see in this exhibit is a good mix of paintings, drawings, photographs, sculpture, stained glass, toys, computer art, and other media that they produce."

Employees contributing to the exhibit from the Raymond Campus are Pat Owens and Opal Dakin, biology instructors; Dr. Nell Ann Pickett, English instructor; Curtis Kynard, director, and John Blair, technician, both of the Media Center; Dr. Jane Kelly

Hinds students work for Disney

By Cassandra Diane

Jamie Keith and Shannon Coughlin, both students of the Raymond Campus, had the time of their lives this past summer. As part of the Co-op program here at Hinds, they were selected to work at Disney World in Orlando, FL.

Keith and Coughlin, along with 200 students who were also in the Co-op program from different schools, went to the University of Southern Mississippi in order to participate in a 15 minute job selection interview. Of the 200 applicants, only eight students were selected for the different job openings, and among them were Keith and Coughlin.

After being selected, Keith and Coughlin along with the other six selected students, participated in a two hour and thirty minute class once a week. After completing the class, they were guaranteed 30 hours of work a week.

During their stay, Keith and Coughlin lived in an apartment complex called Vista Way, which was exclusively for Co-op students working at Disney World for the summer.

Keith's job consisted of many tasks. Among those tasks, he worked at Epcot Center's Pleasure Island, and other wonderful Disney areas.

Coughlin's job was to work as a cashier and stock worker at the Emporium, the world's largest-grossing individual store. The store grosses anywhere from a quarter of a million to half a million dollars a day.

Also, Coughlin had the opportunity to meet many different celebrities. Among them were; Michael Jordan, Michael Jackson, Don Johnson, Ric Flair, and Kevin Costner. Coughlin received a compliment on her Southern accent from Kevin Costner.

Both students were pleased with their experiences, and recommends to anyone who should have the chance to go. "It will be the best summer of your lives."

Student writes POW/MIA poem

In Memory of Me

In memory of me wear this crimson band, and hold my world close to thee.

Remember the dreams I dreamed, remember my laughter, school days and church bells.

Remember the good old days and pray that more will come for me.

For I am a prisoner of war, in an unknown world to me.

Where no dream can be made, and for me all I have lies in the band of Red you wear, in Memory of Me.

This poem is included with every POW/MIA bracelet sold, and was written in memory of S/Sgt Elbert W. Bush, USAF 1/8/73 SVN (MS). Sgt. Bush is the son of retired Hinds instructor, Elbert Bush.

The author is Judy Crowder, of Terry, who wrote it in January, 1985 as an assignment for her professional writing class at Hinds.

The assignment a poem was on Crowder's mind while she sat in her commercial art classes with instructor, Michael Hataway, a colleague and friend of Elbert Bush, Sr., whose son was a prisoner of war. Hataway not only wore a bracelet in support of Bush's son, but strongly advocated the "let's not forget them" philosophy in his classes.

The homemaker and mother of two teenagers marshalled her feelings into a poem which she handed in to instructor, Retta Porter. "My teacher didn't think that much of it," she recalls, "but Mr. Hataway took it behind my back and sent it to this bracelet company."

Crowder gladly gave away the rights to the poem. "I wouldn't take anything for it," she says. "A copy of it is given with every bracelet that is sold, and I can't tell you how thrilled it still makes me. And every now and then I get a call from someone who was missing in action, and they tell me what the poem means to them."

She says, "Whenever I read it, I still get all those feelings that I had when I wrote it ... it's just an emotional thing for me. We must not ever forget these people."

Dedications honor Anderson and Bee

Mrs. Bobbie Anderson

Mrs. Anna Bee

Bobbie Anderson, retired dean of the Jackson Campus Nursing/Allied Health Center, and Anna Bee, Hi-Stepper director, are being honored with building dedications this fall.

The 11 year old Nursing/Allied Health Center was dedicated on Sunday, September 19 to one who helped to break ground for its construction.

Bobbie Anderson, who served as dean of the Center until her retirement this June, saw the associate degree nursing and allied health programs channeled from their classrooms around the district into a specially designed state-of-the-art Nursing/Allied Health Center building, in 1982. Since then she has presided over all of the Center's programs, monitoring for quality and answering community needs with program expansion in every direction.

In 1992, Anderson was instrumental in breaking ground for an annex at the Center to provide space for new and existing programs.

President of the College, Dr. Clyde Muse, says, "Dedicating this building to Mrs. Anderson is a fitting way to honor her. She has served the College with distinction for many years. In particular, she has made an invaluable contribution to the advancement of associate degree nursing and other health programs at Hinds and also, as a former president of the National Organization for the Advancement of Associate Degree Nursing, to the nursing programs in other institutions around the country."

Anna Cowden Bee, director of the Hinds Community College Hi-Steppers since 1953, will be honored at Homecoming 1993 when the Raymond Campus Women's Gym is dedicated to her. She will be recognized at the October 7th Homecoming Game, and will be the focus of an informal Hi-Stepper dinner on October 8, at 7 PM in the building which will be formally renamed the following day. The dedication ceremony, Saturday at 2 PM, will also include the unveiling of the new Hi-Stepper statue.

The 13,855 sq. ft. Bee Hall, with its spacious, mirrored gymnasium and adjacent office, storage and dressing area, has been headquarters for Hi-Stepper practices and meetings since it was constructed in 1958 at a cost of $216,000. In recent years the building has been known informally as "the Hi-Stepper Gym."

"Mr. McLendon really had the Hi-Steppers in mind when he was designing this building," she says. "He had three-dimensional mirrors installed and he wanted the bars on the wall because he had heard that the Ballet Russe had them. Our dressing room even had a washing machine and dryer, and what is a classroom now, was an exercise room. The P.E. offices were in the area that is now duplicating."

Hinds Community College president, Dr. Clyde Muse, says, "Over the 40 years that Mrs. Bee has served as the director of the Hinds Hi-Steppers, she has built that organization into a world class recognized group for precision dance. Without her dedication and leadership during this time, it would not be possible for this fine organization to have achieved the excellence that it has."

Judging team wins at Mississippi Fair

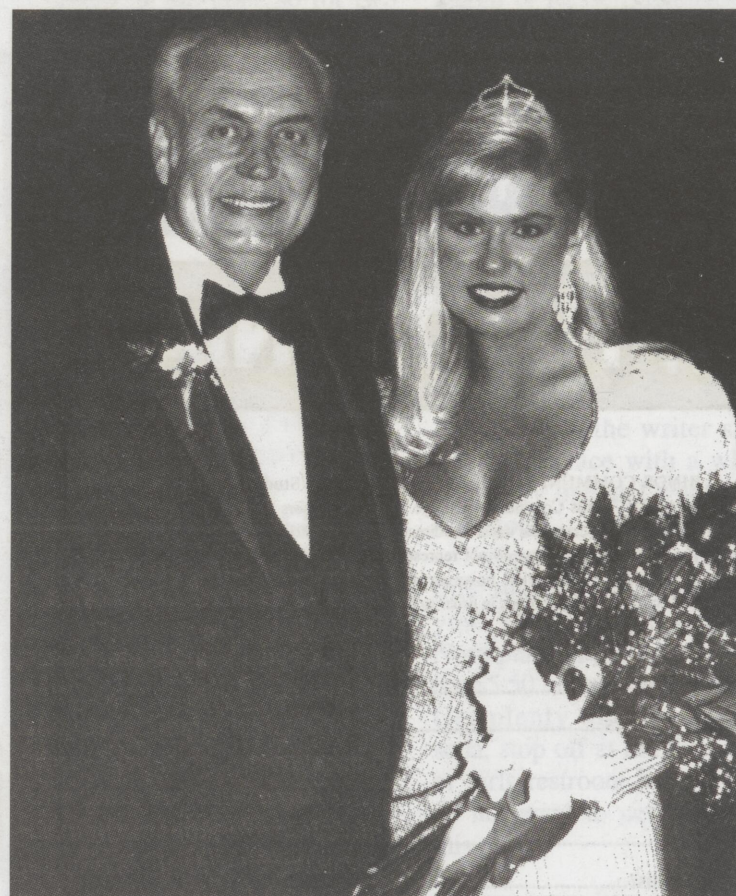

The Hinds Community College Livestock Judging class recently won big at the Livestock pavilion at the Mississippi State Fair. On October 9th, Dr. Roger Jones and his judging teams, four in all with four individuals in each, competed against other state colleges.

The results were great for Hinds because for the first time in the history of the competitions, Hinds was the first to place first and second in cattle and hog judging, and also to win first, second, and third in individual judging.

The first place judging team consisted of Steven Bell, Anthony Waldon, Chad Chester, and Jeff Howell. The second place team consisted of Bo McMillan, Hollis Blackwell, Keith Zimmerman, and Shane Thompson.

The individual judging awards went to for first place, Steven Bell, for second, Keith Zimmerman, and for third place, Anthony Walden. Therefore, sweeping that division of competition.

Not Again !!!

Picture this, you're sitting in one of your classes, and you are trying to focus on what the teacher is saying. You finally find something that your teacher is saying that you can understand, and then out of the blue you hear someone's car alarm go off. Your attention is automatically taken away from the teacher and put on the noise from the car. Now, you have lost all hope of understanding what your teacher was saying.

This is a problem that started off to be an innocent mistake of mechanics, and has turned into an epidemic that is out of control and is extremely annoying. Car alarms are designed for one reason and that is to protect the car from theft. However, instead of protecting, it takes on The Boy Who Cried Wolf affect, where by the alarm goes off and no one jumps or runs to its rescue.

Also picture this, it is late at night and you're finally asleep after studying forever. Then, all of a sudden you hear someone's car alarm go off. What do you do? Nothing, because it is probably another false alarm. But, what if it wasn't? What could we (Students and faculty) have done about it, and how could we have known?

Because of this uncertainty, and only because of it, we will always have the need for them. They may have exhausted their worth to students who don't have an alarm in their car, but they still serve a purpose to the person who owns the automobile. However, if we want students to take these alarms seriously, the owners of these few vehicles, and thank goodness it's only a few, will have to do their part by making sure these alarms don't go off at the blink of an eye.

A few solutions to the problem could be that you don't find it necessary to turn it on when you're parked only thirty-five feet away from Campus Police; instead, make sure your car is locked up. Another solution might be to turn off the alarm when it is parked right outside of your class window in plain view, but if you have an evening class, park as close to a well-lighted area as possible. Also, is it necessary to turn on your car alarm when there are hundreds of people who pass by your car every hour. However, to prevent any possible temptations, place all your valuables out of view.

These are solutions that all people with car alarms might consider in order to stop car theft and also the car alarms from going off unnecessarily.

Campus car alarm epidemic

What are your views on today's car alarms?

John Gates:

"I don't own a car alarms. I believe that car alarms are fine and they do a good job protecting cars."

Les Harvey:

"There are too many, and they are too loud and they do not meet my expectations."

Jelani Porter:

"Alarms are aggravating and should possibly be banned from campus, especially at night."

Cole-Fisher Campbell:

"Alarms are very annoying, and I can't understand the reasoning behind people putting alarms on very trashy cars, like an old Desoto."

Carlanda Willis:

"I have mixed feelings about the alarms" The alarms are good to have but, there are so many alarms these days that no one knows whose alarm is going off."

Rachale Murray:

"I have never had an opinion on much of anything, and today's car alarms are decent enough for me."

Alison Pitts:

Alison wishes they were not so loud and distracting. They are useful she says, but can we tone them down a bit?

Timmy Fair:

"Some alarms are not called for, because the least movement or touch will set them off, and who knows when they will get turned off."

Nickie Richardson:

"It is very disturbing when they go off, and they get on my nerves badly."

Whitney Phillips:

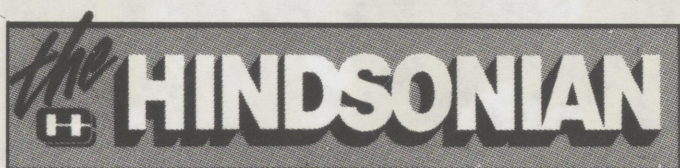

"I don't have one, because I have insurance, and if someone breaks into my automobile, my insurance will pay for it. The ones that have them are really annoying and unnecessary."

Carol Reeves:

"They're good to have in case of a burglary, but they're not fool proof."

Paula Duren:

"Car alarms irritate me because they go off all night, and no one pays attention to them. However, I understand the function, but there are cheaper means of protecting your automobile, like the Club."

Pillsbury dough-boy works at Hiney-Ho

By Cassandra Rousen

You've heard of the Pillsbury dough-boy, the little boy who is fixing to be a sweet roll for someone to eat. Well, Hinds has their own little Pillsbury dough-boy, except he's bigger and I don't think you want to eat him for breakfast. However, you might have eaten one of the many sweet and wonderful delights he serves every morning in the Hiney-Ho convenience store.

The man that I am talking about is none other than a once former Hinds student, Michael Anthony Lawrence. Lawrence is up every morning before the sun rises, around 5:30 a.m., in order to be at Hinds by 6:30 a.m., so that he can meet the demand of the morning rush hour traffic.

So, what is it he bakes that is so in demand? It is none other than his muffins, biscuits, and cookies. He makes Butter and Blueberry muffins, Sausage and steak biscuits, chocolate chip cookies, and also the "Hiney-Ho", which is a sausage on a bun.

Lawrence, does his job with a friendly smile and attitude, but what you may not have known about Lawrence, is that after he leaves work at 4 P.M., so must his friendly smile and attitude.

The reason for this is because Lawrence also works half-time for the Raymond Volunteer Fire Department, where he has done so for two years, and with the same enthusiasm with the volunteer job as with the Hiney-Ho.

"I love my job and enjoy it. I also like to help people when I can," said Lawrence who has proved that to the Hinds community with his past job, Financial Aid for one and a half years.

But, on his days off when his work is finally finished, Lawrence sneaks out to the beach, or either to go hunting or fishing.

So, the next time you are in the Hiney-Ho store, stop by and say hi!

Art Club members on field trips

The Hinds Art Department recently sponsored a field trip to the New Orleans Museum of Art, in which students from the Jackson and Raymond Campuses participated in. The students saw artwork from all around the world and in different time spans.

After the museum, the students enjoyed time along the French Quarter and the French Market.

The Art Department is now scheduling another field trip for November 6, so that students can view the artwork of the Walter Anderson Museum, and the pottery of Shearwater Pottery.

Both, are located in Ocean Springs, and those interested in going, need to contact Paula Duren or Russell Schneider in the Katherine Denton Building as soon as possible. The cost will be five-dollars.

ASG Forum

The Associated Student Government is hard at work this month. We have already attended the annual leadership conference that is held state wide for all community colleges, and we were among other student senates from across the state. A.S.G. worked hard to bring you the 1993 Homecoming Court. The elections were very successful. Congratulations to Allison Foote, one of our fellow A.S.G. senators, for being crowned Homecoming Queen.

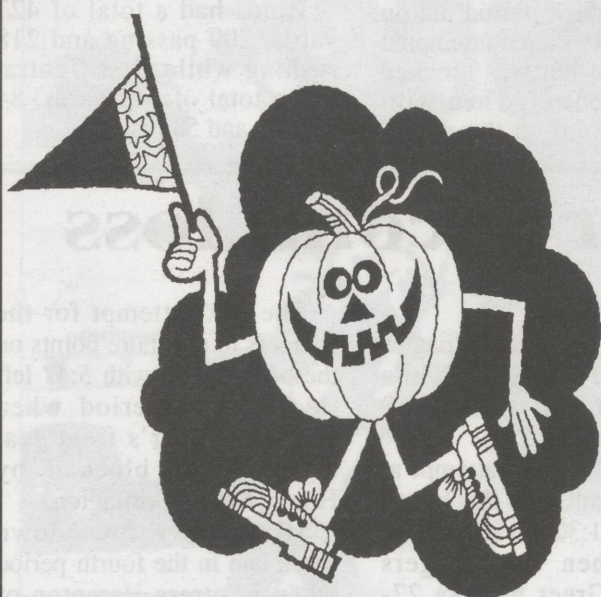

Once again A.S.G. is planning for our community service project. This year we have adopted a fellow student by the name of Melissa Janson that is in dire need of a bone marrow transplant. A.S.G. decided to have a Halloween Carnival in her honor. The carnival is strictly a fund raiser to help pay for the transplant. We are planning many more activities to help Melissa, so we are always open for suggestions. Notice that donation cans are available throughout the campus.

Food Service Committee asks for your help in improving the cafeteria. Once a month a suggestion box will be available to try to meet the needs of you, the students. Traffic Appeals Committee is open to appeal cases of any traffic violation on campus every Wednesday at 2:15 in campus police.

On October 5, 1993 our vice-president resigned from office. Due to this we had to elect a new vice-president and parliamentarian. Jamey Keith was elected vice-president and John Young was elected parliamentarian. Congratulations to our new officers.

Entertainment Review

by Christopher Boggs

Let's just say, thumbs up, four stars, two snaps, a twist and a kiss, or whatever you choose to say about the movie "Malice". The movie stars Alee Baldwin as Dr. Jed Hill, Nichole Kidman (or Cruise) as Tracy, the low life wife of Alan, played by Bill Pullman. This is a movie that could possibly take home a few Oscars come Oscar night. The reason is because the acting is superb, but more than that of the direction, or should I say the directions the plot takes are absolutely genius.

In the beginning of many movies, you end up knowing how it's going to end before it starts, but with Malice, you don't know until it grabs you at the end. As soon as you have it figured out, who did what and where, you sit back in your seat and just wait for the predictable to happen, and then "Bam", the writer slaps you in the face with a whole new story line and whole new direction.

I'm not even going to spoil this suspenseful thriller for you. The show is playing at Northpark and Parkway Place for $5.50 or the $3.50 matinee. Get plenty of popcorn and soda, stop off at the little boys or girls restroom because you do not want to get up during this one.

Have you ever played the game Clue? Well this time it's not the Professor Plumb in the library with the candle stick.

Bears crushed by Hinds Eagles

It was a runaway for the Hinds Community College Eagles as they captured their third win of the season with a 52-3 victory over the Bears of Southwest Mississippi Community College.

The Eagles move to 3-1 overall and 1-1 in the South Division while the Bears move to a 1-3 overall record and are 0-2 in the South Division.

The Eagles first touchdown came with only 57 seconds off the clock, when quarterback Damian Slaughter of Vicksburg connected with running back Dexter Thomas of Jackson on a 56-yard pass play and Chris Pierce of Pearl added the point after for Hinds. Hinds' only other TD of the first period came with 9:45 remaining when Lee Ragsdale of Pelahatchie made a 5-yard run and Pierce again added the point after.

Hinds' running back Kentress Hampton of Utica made the only Eagle touchdown of the second period on a 1-yard run and Pierce again added the point after giving the Eagles a 21-0 lead. However, the Bears were soon able to put a field goal on the board with 6:02 remaining in the first half on a 25-yard kick by Chris Murphy.

Two Eagle touchdowns were made in the third period with Lee Ragsdale making his second on a 7-yard run and Pierce adding the PAT. The other TD was a 1-yard run by Stacey Garrett with the point after by Pierce, putting Hinds ahead 35-3 at the end of the third quarter.

As the fourth period began Chris Pierce attempted a 24-yard field goal, but the attempt was no good due to a bad snap of the ball. However, midway through the fourth, Pierce made a 23 yard field goal. With 3:08 to play in the game Hinds' TeFletcher White of Jackson, made a 20-yard touchdown run with Pierce adding the extra point.

As the clock was running down and 2:19 remained in the game Hinds' Earnest King of Jackson intercepted the ball and made a 50 yard run for the TD which was called back due to a penalty on the Eagles. Looking like an instant replay, just 30 seconds later, King intercepted the ball again from the Bears making a 55-yard touchdown run and Pierce added the point after giving the Eagles their final 52-3 win.

Hinds had a total of 436 yards, 299 rushing and 137 passing while Southwest had a total of 136 yards, 92 rushing and 44 passing. The Eagles had 9 penalties for 80-yards while Southwest had one for 15-yards. Hinds had a total of 19 first downs and the Bears had eight.

Hinds is now 2-1 in the South Division of the JUCO league while the Wolves are 0-5 overall for the season and also winless in the division. In the series standings of the two colleges Co-Lin leads the series 30-29-5.

Hinds first touchdown came late in the first period when quarterback Damian Slaughter of Vicksburg kept the ball and made an 8-yard run while Chris Pierce of Pearl added the point after. With a minute left in the first period the Eagles had to punt to the Wolves four times as Hinds kept receiving a penalty on each punt. However, on the fourth punt the Co-Lin receiver fumbled the ball and the Eagles recovered.

Early in the second period Stacey Garrett of Roanoke, Alabama made a touchdown but it was called back due to another Hinds penalty. Shortly later, Garrett again made a 7-yard touchdown run and Pierce again added the point after putting the Eagles ahead 14-0.

The Wolves only touchdown came with 2:31 remaining in the first half when Stacey Bailey made a 1-yard run for the TD and Owen Saffle added the point after putting Co-Lin on the board.

The Eagles made another TD just as the clock ran out on the first half but too was called back due to another Eagle penalty.

Hinds only score of the third period came with 4:13 remaining when Chris Pierce made a 28-yard field goal moving the Eagles ahead 17-7.

In fourth period action Hinds added 13 more points to the scoreboard with Damian Slaughter first connecting with Tommy Garner of Clinton on a 30-yard pass play for the touchdown. Pierce added the point after and the Eagles moved ahead 24-7. The Eagles last two scores were both field goals by Chris Pierce with his first being a 30-yarder and the second being 18-yards to round out Hinds defeat of the Co-Lin Wolves.

Hinds wins Homecoming

Homecoming 1993 was a success for the Hinds Community College Eagles as they picked up their fifth win of the season with a 34-7 victory over the Warriors of East Central Community College.

The win for the Eagles moves them to a 3-1 South Division record and 5-1 overall for the season while the Warriors moved to 1-2 in the South Division and 1-5 overall.

Kentress Hampton of Utica scored for Hinds in the first period with a 6-yard run and Chris Pierce of Pearl made the point after.

In second period action, with only a minute and seven seconds off the clock, Hampton again scored on a 2-yard run with Pierce adding the extra point.

The next Hinds touchdown came with 5:51 remaining in the second period when quarterback Rayfus Crawford of Chesnee, South Carolina connected on a 31-yard pass play to Dexter Thomas of Jackson and Pierce again added the point after. With only minutes left in the first half Willie Stamps of Vicksburg made a 68-yard TD run but the play was called back due to a penalty. The last Hinds TD of the first period came with 44 seconds to play when Rayfus Crawford made a 39-yard pass to Darry Davis of Jackson while Pierce again added the extra point. As the first half ended the Eagles were leading the Warriors 28-0.

During third period action Hinds' Chris Pierce attempted a field goal but was blocked by East Central. Then with 5:16 remaining in the period quarterback Damian Slaughter of Vicksburg passed 2-yards to Len Cooper of Fort Lauderdale, Florida for the touchdown. The point after attempt by Pierce failed making Pierce's first miss of the season on an extra point attempt putting him at 26 for 27 attempts.

Pierce attempted a 27-yard field goal for Hinds during the fourth period but the kick was blocked by the Warriors.

The East Central's only score of the game came with 1:10 remaining in the game when Lamont Crockett ran 11-yards for the TD and Antony Phipps made the point after to put East Central on the board.

Hinds had a total of 427 yards, 209 passing and 218 rushing while East Central had a total of 142 yards, 84 passing and 58 rushing.

Eagles suffer second loss

Edged out by one point the Hinds Community College Eagles suffered their second loss of the season as the Rangers of Northwest Community College took a 7-6 victory over Hinds.

With offense being the problem for both teams the defense worked for each holding Hinds to 176 total yards while the Rangers were only able to compile 179 total yards.

Penalties plagued the Eagles with 13 for 115 yards while Northwest had six for 60 yards.

Northwest's first attempt at putting points on the board came with 1:30 left in the first period when the Rangers Shannon Greer made a 27-yard field goal but a penalty against Hinds gave the Rangers another first down instead. With 39-seconds remaining in the period Kevin Lothrop made a 1-yard run to give Northwest their only touchdown of the game while Greer added the extra point.

The next attempt for the Rangers to put more points on the board came with 5:47 left in the third period when Shannon Greer's field goal attempt was blocked by Hinds' Keith Washington.

Hinds only touchdown came late in the fourth period when Kentress Hampton of Utica made a 1-yard run but Chris Pierce's extra point attempt was blocked by the Rangers.

In order to advance these aims, Excellence in Mississippi seeks applicants from those students at Hinds Community College who are majoring in Quality Assurance Technology and will be second year students during the 1993-1994 academic year. The student who receives the scholarship will be expected to attend the Excellence in Mississippi conference in Jackson, Mississippi.

Paralegal students attend court sessions

Students in the Paralegal Technology Program. Raymond Campus, recently observed in court. One section of students were in Hinds County Circuit Court, Second Judicial District, Raymond, Honorable L. Breland Hilburn. The docket included a revocation of probation for violations of the guidelines of the probation.

Another selection of students attended Hinds County Court, Honorable Karen Gilfoy. The civil case was at the defense stage of the litigation. After both the plaintiff and defense attorneys completed presentation of evidence and testimony, jury instructions were read and the jury was charged with deliberating toward a verdict. Unable to agree, the jury returned no verdict for a mistrial. Students observed many procedures and practices studied in the classroom.

The Legal Systems and Terminology, night class, attended Jackson Municipal Court. The students observed the lack of formality in a court of this level.

This month also thirty (30) paralegal technology students from the Raymond and Jackson Campuses attended the American Association for Paralegal Educators Conference in Memphis, Tennessee, on October 22. The Conference was held in the Peabody Hotel. Sponsors attending were Susan Wilbanks and Thomas Powell. Each student selected two seminars to attend. The topics were:

- a) ADR (Alternative Dispute Resolution)
- b) Sexual Harassment
- c) Computers in the Legal Environment
- d) Marketing Yourself

Job placement machine on display

The Office of Cooperative Education and Placement in agreement with the MS State Employment Services, has recently finalized a project that will put The Kiosk, a job placement machine, in the cafeteria and also in Room 201 of the administration building.

The Kiosk will provide job matching software, with information concerning jobs around the world, not just in America. The information is more detailed, and will tell the students if they meet the qualifications for their desired job.

The program will start next month, and as Clark Henderson, Director of Cooperative Education and Placement, said "It will greatly benefit Hinds students."

Also in the works by the Co-op is a resume service, which will help students do great resumes. It will also offer assistance with letters of application.

The program if offered to all students and alumnist for a fee of $5.00. This only includes storing your resume information on a 1/2 or 5 1/4 inch diskette, but for $15.00 you can your information

Hinds production receives nomination

The Hinds Lendon Players recently participated in the American Theatre Festival held at MS. Gulf Coast Community College on November 12. The festival included eight other colleges and universities, which also displayed their talents upon the stage.

As a result of their overwhelming performance of "Smoke on the Mountain", they were selected to perform at the regional festival, which will be held at Clemson University in February.

The play was "Smoke on the Mountain", and the story told of a southern baptist families revival into an elite gospel singing group during the Great Depression. The story was performed by the Lendon Players who in every night of their performance at Hinds, brought the audience to its feet, and eventually also received great results by the judges of the festival.

The theatre department had to put together clips and slides from the play to send to the board for further consideration on the chance to go to Clemson.

The actors and actresses for "Smoke on the Mountain" were: Mitchell Moore as Rev. Oglethorpe, Christopher Boggs as Burl, David Harris as Stanley, Canady Vance as Vera, Jennifer Taylor as June, Tim Walsh as Dennis, Leslie Thompson as Denise, Kimberly Barfield as Miss Myrtle, and Bridget Reilly as Miss Maude.

The show was directed by Denise Halbach and she was assisted by David Hawkins as technical director, and Robert Lee as musical director.

A date will be selected for the show to play again sometime early next semester at Hinds before going to Clemson.

Deck The Table

The season of perpetual eating is quickly approaching us as we start to deck our tables with food and food galore. We will have to ignore all the diet pills that seem to linger upon us all year long, and if we run out of our favorite foods we can get in the car and go down to the store, so that we can get the materials needed to make more of whatever it is that we love to eat over the Christmas holiday.

With diets becoming more and more a part of people's everyday lives, we have to learn to cope with the temptations that come with the holiday season, and its wide array of cookies, candies, and food.

So, how do we cope with this temptation? We don't. Instead of trying to resist, we should eat and eat until we feel guilty enough that we can make it our New Years resolution to get back on our diet.

Of these Christmas foods that we will spend a lot of our Christmas vacation eating, will be the most common of them all, fudge, because of its very rich and very sweet taste. Also lining the tables will be the snow white divinity balls, and speaking of balls, you might also see Bourbon balls with their scent of bourbon lingering in the air.

And to serve as a reminder of Christmas, you might also see pralines, Christmas cookies, fruit cake, pies, cakes, and the seasonally awaited egg nog, with its rich flavor.

So, if you are confronted by any of these Christmas time desserts don't hesitate; instead, give in. Enjoy every last morsel of whatever it is you are eating, and if you feel guilty, just wait 'till New Year's, where you make it your resolution to lose all that weight you might have gained.

Cats discuss campus

In the poem 'The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock,' T.S. Elliot likened the yellow fog of St. Louis to a cat. He later furthered his creativity with cats by writing a book of poems about cats called 'Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats.' From these works of literature, the world was introduced to itself through the eyes of a cat. Since, cats have had a magical and mysterious way of describing human behaviors with their own actions and behaviors.

I recently came across three such cats, that have made Hinds their home. I was able to find conversation as I looked into their sometimes gentle, but yet sometimes deceptive eyes, as they all gathered in front of the cafeteria trash dumpster waiting for their evening supper to be served. So, while they waited for their supper, I was able to learn a little bit about each cat. The first cat I talked to was named Dodger. He is a black cat that hangs out in the parking lot in front of the Student Union Building, where he finds pleasure in meeting all the people that pass by him everyday. "I enjoy watching people as they go to either there first, second, or last class of the day." "I enjoy the morning probably the most of all, because to look at their faces, you would think something had run over them. And, the way they walk, well you would think they had to go to the bathroom, and had no time to lose." said Dodger staring into space, as though he was waiting for someone else to show up for dinner. So out of curiosity, I asked him if he was waiting on someone to show up, and in reply he said, yes with a fearful face, as though he had seen a ghost. "There is a dog, who thinks he is king of this domain, who creeps around the corner, and when you least expect it, and then he chases you until you find a place to hide from his voracious claws.

At that time, the second cat stepped in, with her prissy little attitude that made all the other cats want to barf. She acted in such a manner, because she lived up under the stage in Cain Hall, where she pretends to be the next Scarlet O' Hara in the sequel Scarlet, which she can recite with no trouble whatsoever. "I too have seen this dog with his ferocious claws, and drooling lips, which by the way are improper and unclear. Me on the other, I am always clean and proper, all the way to my sleeping habits, which are so rudely interrupted by all that loud and obnoxious music that you humans play every now and then." At that point, I wasn't only offended, but also amused, that a cat so pretty could be so rude an animal. But, I guess it comes with turf.

Also angered, was Tom, the cat with no morals, under the Laws of the wanna be Scarlet O' Hara. Tom is that exactly, a tomcat, who lives in the drainage system in front of Greaves Hall. He looks forward to the day's end with anticipation, because then can he leave his burrow and explore, because any other time of the day might spell his death. The reason being, because he feared this dog of constant motion, and the many times he has almost got Tom. "I hate that stinking dog with his devilish drool, but what I hate most of all are the cars that pass by me at rocket speed." "A cat is supposed to have nine lives. Well, my nine are almost up."

After Tom said that, the clean up man came outside with his bags of trash for the cats to eat, so I left the cats to eat their supper in peace, that is unless the dog should happen to show up for his supper. I left them with a great eagerness to tell everyone of my experience with these three talking cats, but I knew it would only cause many stares, so I went on home and left it at that, my own experience, until now.

"Presidential Speaking"

by
Dr. Clyde Muse

Congratulations to the Hinds Community College Eagle football team for finishing the regular season with a 7-3 record and placing second in the South Division Championship. Also, I would like to express appreciation to the band, Hi-Steppers, cheerleaders, and Ernie the Eagle for their outstanding performance throughout the football season.

As the basketball season begins, we look forward to another successful year for our women and men's basketball teams. Most of these games will be played on the Utica Campus, and I encourage all locations to support our basketball teams.

The Hinds Community College Athletic Program received numerous awards this past year including: 1) state championships in men's tennis and track, 2) state championship runners-up in women's tennis and golf, 3) first place in the North Division Softball Championship, 4) Region XXIII Soccer Championship, and 5) second place in the MACJC Football South Division. Coaches receiving honors included: Dr. Cleon McKnight, Men's and Women's Tennis Coach, was named Region XXIII and State Coach of the Year; Tony Gines, Track Coach, was named Region XXIII and State Coach of the Year; Tom Shepherd, Soccer Coach, was recognized by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

This Christmas brings an end to this season's performance of these groups as well as your performance for the first semester of 1993-94. The semester is memory now - happy for some, frustrating for others. It would be wonderful if we could maintain, throughout the semester, the enthusiasm with which we began.

Semester exams are a measure of how well you have learned the materials covered in the semester. The time of reckoning is now, but with daily preparation you have provided yourself the skills and information needed. If you have not arranged and paced your schedule for daily preparation and study this semester, try to improve during the spring.

Now most of you are preparing to return to your homes for the brief vacation between semesters. Work will occupy some, travel may be in your plans, and time with family and friends will help make future memories. Christmas has a special and different meaning to each of us. Whatever your plans, have a safe and happy holiday. Bring a renewed excitement to begin the second semester. If your plans do not include returning to Hinds, we wish for you great success in your chosen endeavors.

Congratulations to those of you graduating December 17. We hope your stay at Hinds has been enjoyable, and wish for you the best.

Whether your plans include continuing your education or entering the work force after leaving Hinds, I would encourage you to complete the requirements for an associate degree. Studies indicate that individuals with an associate degree have a distinct advantage over their most frequent competition, high school graduates, for most entry level positions. Income, opportunities to obtain further education, increased employment opportunities, and job security are a few of the benefits to the associate degree graduate.

Vashti and I would like to take this opportunity to invite you to attend the President's Christmas Open House to be held in Bee Hall on the Raymond Campus on Monday, December 13, from 5:30 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Janson thanks Hinds

I would like to take this opportunity to thank each of you who participated and attended the Halloween Carnival on October 26, 1993.

The benefit was given for me to help raise money for my Bone Marrow transplant. I appreciate all of the hard work and time spent preparing this benefit for me.

You will never know how much this has meant to me, as well as my family.

Thanks So Much,
Melissa Janson

ASG is diligently working on one major issue that has been brought to our attention, which is the lack of interpreters in the Residence Halls. This is a severe problem for our Hearing Impaired Students that live on campus. District Student Government met December 2, 1993 to discuss district wide issues such as tuition problems, drug problems, and problems with parking decals.

If you have any questions or comments regarding the Raymond Campus please contact the Dean of Students office at 857-3232. ASG would also like to congratulate Patricia Patrick for being chosen Most Beautiful and Kristy Meador for being named Hinds Community College's Distinguished Student. Both are fellow senators.

Entertainment Review

by Christopher Boggs

A comic, drama, full of energy, with a good story, but where did they get Chris O'Donnel? I won't linger on this poor boy story, but help him someone!

I enjoyed this movie, and it was very entertaining. Charlie Sheen, Keifer Sutherland, Oliver Platt, and Chris O'Donnel team together to stop the Cardinal of the Church of England from killing the king.

I thought Platt had a very interesting part for himself as a very funny, witty, happy-go-lucky swordsman just doing his job.

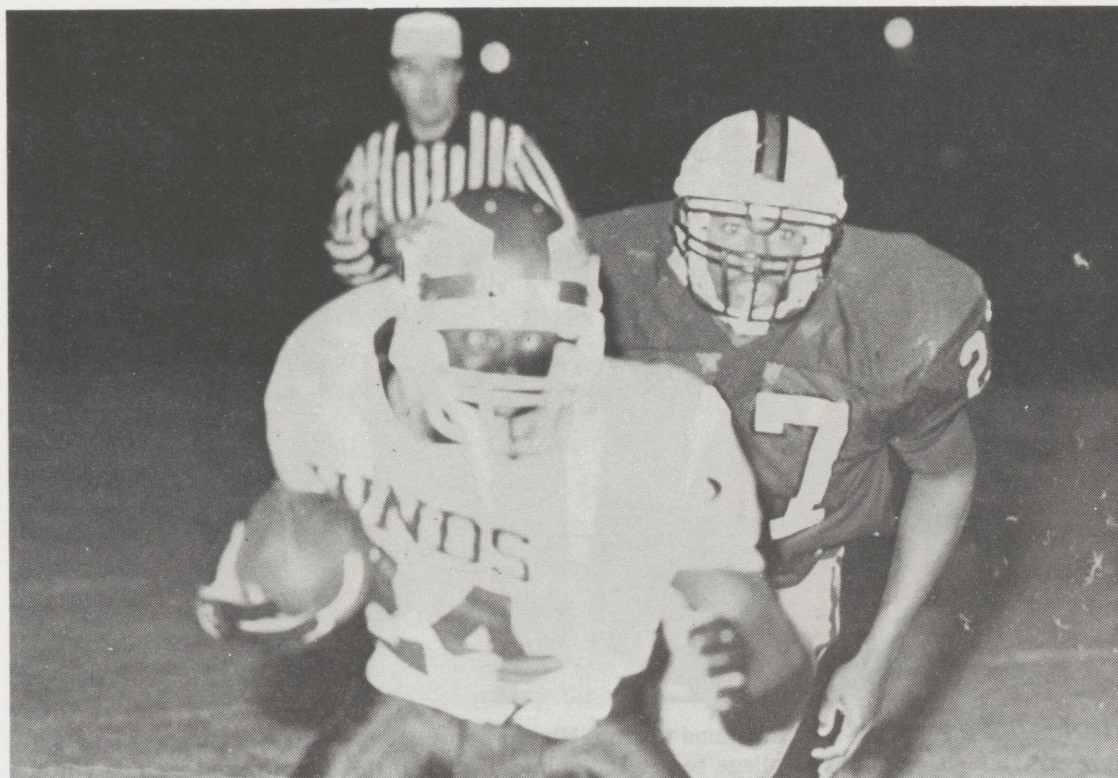

Sheen played the intelligent, religious, quick handed musketeer, Aramis, who loves poetry and women.

Sutherland, oh how splendid his character was, the character hidden behind the sword with a lost soul. He was a character whose attitude, honor, and compassion you respected.

The setting for the movie was extremely wonderful, and the costumes were perfect.

I enjoyed sitting through the movie, rather than wanting to leave. It is currently playing at Northpark and Parkplace.

This is a good movie to take a kid brother or cousin to see.

Eagles snuff Bulldogs 39-7

Closing out their last game of the season on the road, the Hinds Community College Eagles left their impression on the Holmes Community College Bulldog's field with the Eagles taking a 39-7 win over Holmes.

The win put the Eagles with a 7-3 overall record and a 4-2 South Division record while Holmes moved to an overall 5-5 record and 3-3 in the North Division. Hinds now leads the series between the two colleges 28-24-2.

The Eagles wasted little time putting points on the board as Stacey Garrett of Roanoke, Alabama dashed 4-yards for the first Hinds touchdown of the game and Chris Pierce of Pearl added the extra point.

However, Holmes Bernard Kelly soon did the same for the Bulldogs with a 10-yard run for the TD and Shelby Johnson added the extra point which ended Holmes scoring for the rest of the game.

Hinds added three more touchdowns to the scoreboard during second quarter action with Lee Ragsdale of Pelahatchie making two of them. Ragsdale made 2 and 3-yard runs for the TD's with Damian Slaughter of Vicksburg connecting with Scott Stacey of Prattville, Alabama for the 2-point conversion on one of the TD's. Another touchdown was made on a 4-yard run by Stacey Garrett with the 2-point conversion attempt failing.

In the third period with 1:30 remaining Stacey Garrett made a 1-yard run for the Eagles to collect another touchdown. Hinds went for 2 again but the attempt failed.

The last Eagle touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Len Cooper of Fort Lauderdale, Florida connected on a 41-yard pass from Damian Slaughter for the TD. Pierce's extra point attempt was no good as the Eagles wrapped up the last game with a 39-7 win.

Eagles finish with 7-3 record

The Hinds Community College Eagles finished the 1993 football season with a 7-3 overall record and 4-2 in the South Division.

The Eagles scored a total of 279 points while allowing opponents to score only 106 points against them. Hinds had a total of 1,081 yards passing and 1,964 yards rushing.

Wins for the season were: 45-6 over Coahoma, 27-0 over Northeast, 52-3 over Southwest, 30-7 over Co-Lin, 34-7 over East Central, 22-13 over Gulf Coast, and 39-7 over Holmes. Their three losses for the season were: 30-21 to Pearl River, 7-6 to Northwest, and 26-3 to Jones.

Individual scoring leaders for the season included kicker Chris Pierce of Pearl with 52 points, 24 made by field goals and 28 made by extra points. Stacey Garrett of Roanoke, Alabama, made eight touchdowns for 48 points and Lee Ragsdale of Pelahatchie followed with seven TD's for 42 points.

POOL RENOVATION — The Mayo Fieldhouse swimming pool has been undergoing a new facelift during the past several months. The pool, constructed in 1976, has never received any general maintenance work on it other than cleaning since it opened.

Swimming pool gets face lift

In late September all Swimming classes were closed due to an unexpected construction project to the pool and surrounding area. The pool, which was built in 1976 has not had any maintenance work done to it since that time, other than regular cleaning.

According to Athletic Director Rene Warren, a professional pool service has been hired to keep regular maintenance of the pool. The service began by stripping the metal supports of the old paint and coating them and all metal surfaces with a blue paint. The brick walls were sealed, the foam tiles of the roof, and the windows were replaced.

Finally the pool was drained and the bottom of it was sprayed with an acid to clean off the years of algae stains. The lights inside the pool were replaced to provide a better light for nighttime pool events.

The construction will be completed in time for the spring semester swimming classes.

Basketball teams having success

With half the basketball season behind them the Hinds Community College men's and women's teams are both having a good season as the men sport a 8-3 record while the women are 10-1.

However, with most South Division games in front of them, the two teams will be facing some tough opponents during the second semester schedule. At present in division play the men's team is 1-0 while the women's team is also 1-0. With both teams only having played one division game their schedule still has ten division games before the South Division Tournament.

Leading the women in scoring is Latina Edwards of Little Rock, Arkansas with a 21 average. She is followed by Kimberly Dent of Vicksburg with a 11 point average. Both women are also leading in rebounds with Edwards having an 11.5 average and Dent a 8.6 average.

Leading the men in scoring is Mark Davis of Meadville with an 18.2 average and he is followed by Anthony Johnson of Alexandria, Louisiana with a 17.3 average. Leading in rebounds is Larry Ferguson of Vicksburg with a 5.9 average and following is Andrew Stamps also of Vicksburg with a 5.2 average.

The women's team wins are: 84-68 over Mary Ho Imes, 68-64 over Holmes, 77-64 over Coahoma, 73-64 over Holmes, 83-67 over Miss. Delta, 98-67 over Delgado, 68-67 over of Miss. Delta, 69-57 over Holmes, 58-53 over Co-Lin and 82-80 over Mary Holmes. Their only loss has been 103-73 to Northeast.

The men's team wins are: 88-85 over Mary Holmes, 99-61 over Holmes, 79-67 over Coahoma, 93-77 over Holmes, 79-68 over Miss. Delta, 68-66 over Miss. Delta, 86-65 over Holmes and 74-69 over Co-Lin. Their three losses have been 115-95 to Northeast, 102-100 to Delgado and 106-104 to Mary Holmes.

Renewal application simplified

The new Renewal Application is a simpler way to apply for federal student aid. If you completed the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in 1993-94, you should receive the Renewal Application in November or December. The Renewal Application will be sent directly to the address you sent us and looks like Part 2 of the Student Aid Report (SAR), except on white paper.

Fewer questions to fill out...

Students using the Renewal Application will have to answer fewer questions. About 75% of the questions will have the answers pre-printed on the application. For these questions, you need to write in responses only if the pre-printed information is not correct.

You will need to provide information that's likely to change from year to year and answer new questions. A dependent student may only have to answer 26 questions; an independent student may only have to answer 20 questions. In addition, the form will list the college choices you made the previous year; just check the box next to the college name to send in the new information.

Fewer Errors...

Because you don't have to provide as much new information, there will be fewer opportunities for errors. You'll have already reviewed most of the information on the form. The pre-printed information will be the same as information on the SAR from the previous year, plus corrections made before November 1, 1993. You only have to write in new information if there have been changes (such as a change in family size) since the previous year. You can even update your dependency status on the Renewal Application.

It's faster...

The Renewal Application can be processed faster than the FAFSA because there's less to process. There are fewer questions to answer, so you'll spend less time filling out the application. And fewer errors means less time spent making corrections and waiting for those corrections to be processed. The Renewal Application will save everyone time.

Coming soon...

In November or December, the Renewal Application will be mailed to the latest address on file for you. If that address is incorrect, correct it now to be sure you get the renewal Application. You don't need to do anything else to receive an application. You can even use the Renewal Application if you've changed schools. Simply write in the name of your new school in place of the old school. And if the new school uses a different FAFSA processor, you can send the Renewal Application directly to the new processor.

Wait for the Renewal Application...

You don't need to get a FAFSA — instead, look for your Renewal Application in the mail during late November and December. Neither application can be submitted until January 1st — it makes sense to wait for the Renewal Application.

Remember, don't sign or send in your & 1994-95 application before January 1, 1994.

HCC art teachers receive honors

The Thirteenth Annual Vicksburg Art Association recently held its exhibition of Mississippi Artist. The show lasted from October 23-27 at the Constitution Firehouse.

The exhibition displayed works of art by people from all around the state in 10 different categories which were determined by the use of medium by the artist.

Among the participants were Hinds' own fine art teachers Paula Duren and Gayle McCarty.

Paula Duren, took second and third place in the drawing category. Duren's second place winner was a drawing of mixed media, in color and pastel called, "Spectrum Gates". The picture consisted of a tree line in real vivid and intense colors.

Duren's third place drawing was "It's Time To Mend Some Fences". It is a also a pastel picture with the use of mostly violet and yellow colors. The picture is like a patch work of a quilted field in different colors. The field are fenced except for the west end, where the fence is broken. The drawing is more abstract.

Also included in Duran's awards, is a mixed media portrait entitled "Little Sand Creek". The picture is that taken from Rocky Springs. The watercolor shows the curve in the creek, with its' real green and crispness in the springtime. Gayle McCarty, also walked away with three awards, all from the fiber category. McCarty's first, second, and third place winners were all art pieces in a series she calls "Rights of Passage." The series is meant to tell of things that have happened to women throughout the ages. McCarty's first place winner was entitled "Homage to the Cranes," and it is a picture of three cranes overlapping each other. The one furthest back is in recession, while the other two pop out of the surface. The idea came from the Egyptian tombs, and it is the only one in the series that is quiet and elegant.

The second place winner was "Tribute," which displays the earliest woman in art history, "Venus of Willendorf." McCarty uses the style of early cave paintings for this picture, and states "this picture is of personal need, not the desire for anyone else to understand." The final piece, "The Protector," breaks away from the theme slightly of woman throughout history, and acts as a protector for the other pieces in this series. The picture shows an archway made out of animal bones put together for the side of the arch, and the rib bone of a cow for the arch itself.

In the middle there is a woman in low relief, and feathers sticking up on top of her head. The woman represents a fertility figure.

Of the award won by both, Paula Duren's "Spectrum Gates", was an purchase award, bought by the Vicksburg Public School Art Society, and McCarty's weren't for sale.

BLOOD DRIVE — Circle K club recently sponsored a blood drive on campus with the Mississippi Blood Service of Jackson. The drive was conducted in Cain Auditorium and approximately 50 pints were donated by Hinds students and employees. (HCC photo by Wade Grant).

BAILEY AND FRIENDS - Cindy Bailey, Class of 1990, recently became animal warden for the City of Clinton. She is pictured holding her pet raccoon, and is surrounded by her pot bellied pig, three dogs, and her pet bird. All animals live together on her 16-acre farm.

Rankin Marketing Management group is keeping busy

The Rankin Campus, MMT students are being supportive of the Drug Abuse Prevention Campaign by advertising on Bulletin Boards, Display Cases and even playing the part of the McGruff Crime Dog on campus. Our slogan being "MMT is Drug Free".

The marketing students at Hinds Community College Rankin have been busy helping the Spice of Life company develop a logo for their line of hot sauces called "Twenty-One Gun Salute". The students got in groups and developed the different suggested logos with guidelines in mind. Herb and Carrie Pickering, owners of the Spice of Life, came to class and the different ideas were presented. Many of the suggestions will be used in the packaging, pricing and labeling of the product in the near future.

Marketing Management Technology recently took a field trip to the Levi Strauss Distribution Center in Madison, MS. The tour was given by Jim Dorsey, Training and Safety Manager. The students learned about the history of Levi Strauss and how the company operates. Levi Strauss was created in the 1800's at San Francisco. The home base for this successful company is still located in San Francisco. They learned about core products and trendy products. They were told about their mission statement and how it applies to daily life as well as the work force. Levi Strauss' main concern is with Customer Satisfaction.

The distribution center is 700,000 square feet. There are over six million garments stored at the center at all times. They also have six miles of conveyor belts. Levi Strauss is a good company to work for. They have excellent fringe benefits and also provide insurance for their employees. The employees are sent to a four day retreat to prepare for the job of a salesman. They are interested in hiring people with problem solving skills and communication skills.

Former student becomes warden

Cindy Bailey, a graduate of the Class of 1990 here at Hinds, recently became the animal warden for the City of Clinton. While at Hinds, Bailey studied in the Veterinarian Assistant Technology Program in the early 80's, and then returned later to earn a general applied science degree.

Bailey has lived in Mississippi since she was a child, and is a resident of Raymond, where she lives on a 16-acre farm with a variety of animals, including three potbellied pigs, one of which is trained to do tricks, and a miniature horse. One of the household pets include a raccoon, who loves to play with all the other animals. "They the love of my life," she quotes.

She also currently has an Arabian horse, two German Shepherds, a whippet, and a 14 year old Keeshond. She raises German Shepherds and American Staffordshire terriers; and one of her six terriers is a therapy dog, used in educational talks.

Over the years, she has befriended a variety of animals including a dwarf bull calf which is now at the Agricultural Museum, and an iguana, which she recently sold.

"People buy a lot of exotic animals, and I end up with them because they're not able to take care of them," she said citing a cougar as an example. "Someone called the vet I was working for about putting her to sleep, but when I found out she was a healthy animal, I went and got her. I trained her, and we eventually wound up being photographed for a country/western album." Bailey, later found a good home where the cougar could run.

Her experience with animals also includes working with veterinarians in Jackson and other states, and with the Animal Rescue League of Jackson. In addition, she has worked at horse tracks in Louisiana and breeding farms in Texas, and has groomed animals and assisted in animal surgeries.

Bailey says her main goals are to reunite people with their pets, cut down on pet overpopulation, and to get people to understand The importance of spaying and neutering your animals.

Raymond PTK win awards

The Hinds Community College chapter of Phi Theta Kappa recently went to the coast for the 1993 regional convention for Mississippi-Louisiana Phi Theta Kappa organizations, which was held at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College's Jefferson Davis Campus in Perkinston. It was hosted by the Gamma Nu chapter of the Perkinston campus.

Cliff Nelson, who has been the head of the Raymond Campus chapter, Gamma Lambda, for five years, and the members of the organization, have led and directed the Raymond Campus PTK to excellence and a prominent standing in the community. They have done so by helping needy families and elderly couples, by putting on food drives, and several other projects. Because of these efforts, the Gamma Lambda Chapter have been recognized by other colleges in the Mississippi-Louisiana region.

While attending the conference, Hinds' Phi Theta Kappa chapter won three regional awards. These awards were given to the Gamma Lambda Chapter, according to the groups achievement as a Phi Theta Kappa regional member.

One of the awards the Raymond based chapter received was the Historian Reporter award, and did so by putting on a campaign for the position of Historian Reporter, which was voted on by each chapter.

The second award won, was the Hallmark Award for Fellowship, which is presented to a chapter that has shown a strong fellowship with their sister chapter, which for Hinds is the, Copiah-Lincoln chapter. It is designed to encourage participation in service projects, and other worthy causes.

The final award won was the Four Star Award. This award is given to chapters that have completed certain requirements. The chapter starts off on the One-Star level, and from there can work its way up to a Two-Star and so on until they reach the Five-Star level.

For the Four-Star level, the chapter had to campaign for a regional office and/or hosted regional meetings. They also had to set up more than four comprehensive honors programs, and more than four comprehensive service program projects. Also the chapter must have competed for half of the regional awards, and at least three Hallmark Awards.

While at the convention, the students who attended commented they enjoyed the speeches, the topics spoken about, and most of all, they felt that this time spent together with other chapters made them closer with each other. Kristy Johnson put it simply, "It was very enlightening, and I made a lot of new friends."

The convention lasted for two days and Hinds had representation on the board by Jean Sebron, who holds the Historian position for the region. Sebron was also nominated for The Golden Key.

Also, the PTK is planning to attend the national convention in California next semester, and they currently are working several promotions, which are geared to help them with their travel.

Young Republicans have guest speaker

By Jeff Magruder

Once again, Hinds' College Republicans have shown their ability to attract attention. In September, the group worked a State Republican Party fund raiser, which featured U. S. Senate Minority Leader, Bob Dole of Kansas. This event also included such leaders as Governor Kirk Fordice, Sen. Trent Lott, and Lt. Governor Eddie Briggs.

The Melissa Janson fund raiser in October was the next major event for the College Republicans and was done in conjunction with A. S. G.

The latest occurrence in College republicans was the coming of a special speaker, Dutch Dabbs, who is currently running for the U. S. House of Representatives.

Dabbs received his BBA degree from the University of Mississippi, and has been a partner in the CPA firm of Dabbs and Dabbs & Co. He is also a former member of the Mississippi Army National Guard unit in Meridian.

He discussed and answered many questions about different issues facing the world today. The issues ranged from NAFTA to school prayer, and the answers stated facts not know by the average American citizen.

Hinds' College Republicans will be supporting Dutch Dabbs in the coming months with his campaign, and anyone who wishes to help support him, or just become a member of our organization, will be greatly appreciated.

HCC Art Club plans trip

The Hinds Community College Art Club is sponsoring a trip to Washington D.C., which will be leaving the Raymond Campus on Wednesday April 13 at midnight and will be returning the evening of April 17.

The trip is opened to the maximum of 46 students, faculty, and other people who are interested in attending, but priority will be given to Art Club members.

This trip is intended to be educational plus provide art students with the means to meet and form new friendships. The group will visit the all major galleries, museums, and the city at large.

The Art Club will be sponsoring different fund raisers, to help cut down on the cost of the trip. Of these fundraisers, is a clay sculptures sale done by students and faculty that is available for viewing in the Art Building. Each piece sells for $5.00 and all proceeds go towards the trip. Also scheduled as a fundraiser is a Starving Artist Sale, that will display the talents of individual art work done by art students. The price for each piece will vary depending on the individual and art work itself. The Starving Artist Sale will take place in March in the courtyard in front of the Library, weather permitting.

The cost of the trip will be $235.00 for Art Club members and $265.00 for non-club members. This cost is going to be divided into three payments, with the first payment of $75.00, being due on Feb. 11. The Second payment of $75.00 will be due on March 11, and the remaining balance on March 29. Spending money is separate from the cost above, and is totally up to you.

If you would like more information concerning the Washington D.C. trip, you can contact Paula Duren of the Art Department at 857 3276, or Russ Schneider at 857-3274.

KIOSK provides job information

As mentioned in the October 29 issue of the Hindsonian, The Office of Cooperative Education and Placement in agreement with the MS State Employment Services has set up the new database computer, KIOSK, which serves Hinds students with job information, and

Whether or not they meet the qualifications for that job.

The KIOSK is currently in the Administration Building, but will be transferred to Denton Gym, when remodeling is finished.

The Office of Cooperative Education and Placement is also looking for students who are interested in taking part in a Manager Trainee Program offered by a financial lending institution. There are 13 openings in which to apply for, for those with two years of college.

Those selected will have the benefit of profit sharing, (continued on page 2)

Miss Hinds Pageant set for March 2nd

A panel of judges approved by the the Miss Mississippi Pageant, will select the top five contestants with the winner being crowned as the 1994 Miss Hinds Community College. The winner will also represent the college in the Miss Mississippi Pageant in July in Vicksburg. The winner of this pageant will represent the State of Mississippi in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Hinds president, Dr. Clyde Muse, will crown the winner of the pageant along with the 1993 winner Tara Garner.

Commenting on the pageant Mrs. Bee said, "Hinds has long been noticed for its beauty pageants, and being the first junior college in the state to send a contestant to the Miss Mississippi Pageant.

Admission to the pageant will be $2.00 for Hinds students with their college I.D. cards and $3.00 for the general public.

Weather Awareness Week

The week of February 28- March has been named Mississippi Severe Weather Awareness Week by Governor Kirk Fordice.

The National Weather Service and the Management Agency are once again asking for your help in spreading information to the public about the threat of severe weather and life-threatening measures to be taken when severe weather occurs.

Over the past several years, there have been several tornadoes move through several Mississippi counties killing hundreds of people and injuring just as many.

The events of past incidents serves as a bad reminder of how severe weather episodes can take lives and cause large numbers of injuries in only a matter of time.

To prevent bad weather, like a tornado from taking more lives than it has to, a statewide tornado drill has been scheduled for the week of February 28. During that morning there will be a special test of the Mississippi NOAA Weather Radio alarm system.

A TORNADO WATCH means that conditions are favorable for tornadoes to develop. You should listen to NOAA Weather Radio, or to commercial radio and television stations for the latest weather information. Keep informed and keep an eye out for threatening conditions and be prepared to go to a safe place quickly.

A TORNADO WARNING means that a tornado has been detected by a radar or a tornado has been sighted by someone. If the tornado warning is for your area, then you should go to a safe shelter immediately.

Decisions, decisions

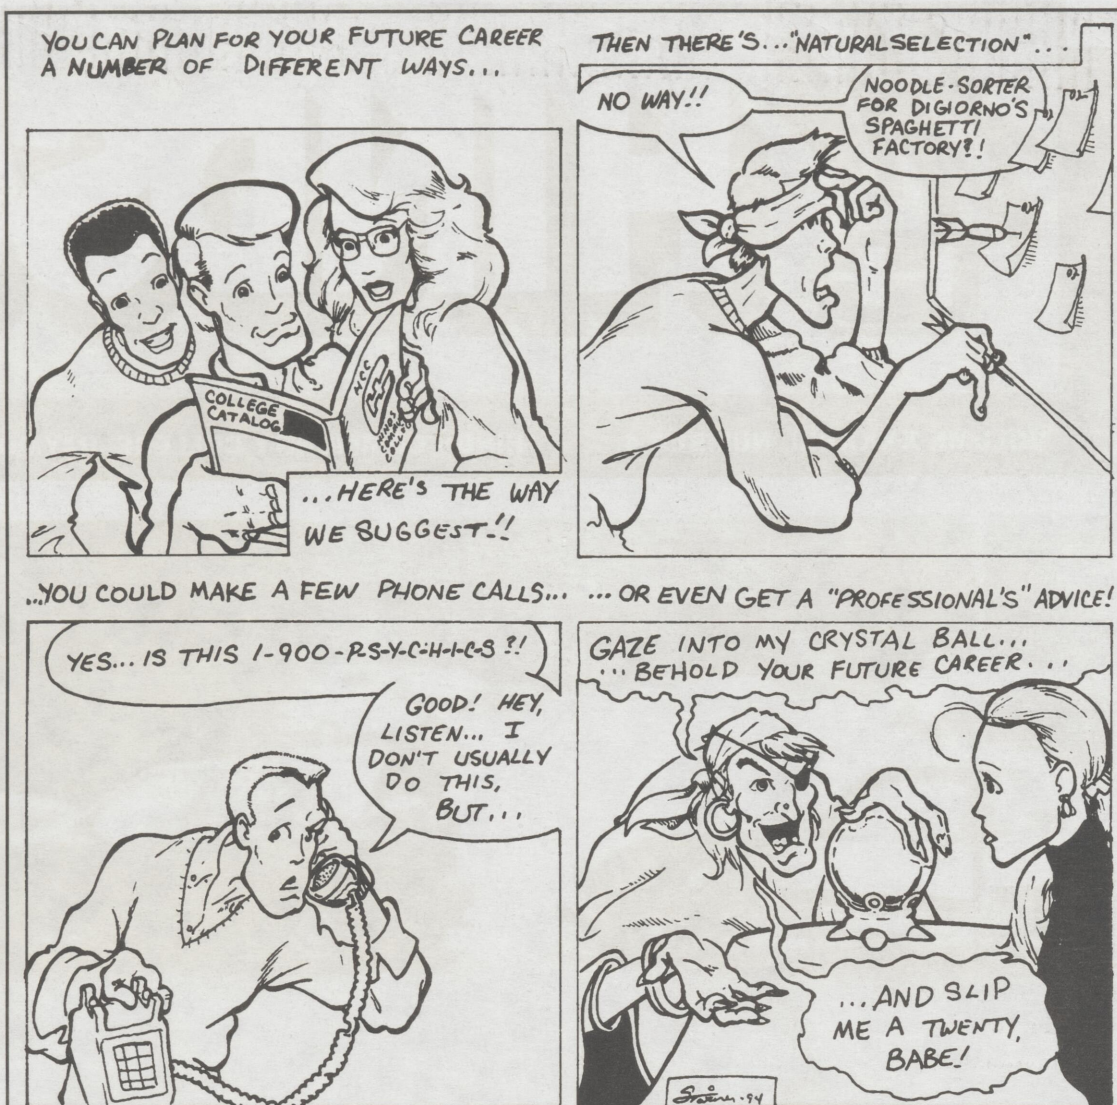

In life we are faced with many tough and sometimes easy decisions. Some are less important to some people than are others, but no one decision concerning school is more important to most people as is what the future holds for us career wise, and how we are going to get there. This is not something that dialing 1-900 psychic will solve. It is something that we must solve ourselves.

Some students are new, while others are about to wrap up their stay here at Hinds by graduating in May. Some of us are going to step out in the world with both feet firmly on the ground and a job in mind, while others are going out into that big world with no clue at all as to what they will do, and can only hope they will discover their vocation soon.

This is where the question of whether or not the career chosen is the right one, and if it isn't the right one, how do you choose something else that you might or might not be better or might or might not be happier with. When some of us have already elected to go through one, two, or three semesters of a course the decision is not easy, and is probably not meant to be. Should one stick with that career one has already chosen, the one that might give you the potential of making a lot more money than say the one that you might have chosen that might have possibly made you happier than you would have been before, but with a smaller possibility of making as much money as the other choice.

If the money is not the case, and you are unhappy with the career choice you have made, then do something about it. Change it while you have time, and when I say time, I don't just mean go out and drop courses you are unhappy with right now, because for one thing it's to late, also there may be required courses, and finally because you don't want to make a mistake that you might later regret.

To sum up what I am saying, you should think seriously about it this semester, and when it comes time to enroll later this semester or early next semester, talk to your counselor about the decision you have made about the career you have chosen, and then you can go from there. But first ask yourself if what you already are doing makes you happy, or is there something else that just might make you happier.

PRESIDENTIAL PORTRAITURE – Carol Smuck of North Jackson, owner of The Golden Palette Studio, stands in front of portraits she painted of the six men who have served as president of the Hinds Community College Board of Trustees. Smuck, a 1989 graduate of the Raymond Campus fine arts program, worked from black and white photographs of the deceased earlier Board presidents, H. V. Watkins (1918-1944); and F. M. Greaves (1944-1969). She also worked from color photographs of subsequent board presidents, R. W. Woolley (1969-1977); Ted H. Kendall, III (1977-1988); A. A. Alexander, (1988-1992); and current president, Walter R. Bivins. At the December 1 ceremony dedicating the portraits and a plaque naming all member of the Board from 1918 to present, Smuck stated, "I am pleased to do the portraits for the College. It's a way of giving something back to Hinds. The education I received here turned my life around." The portraits hang in the Board room in the District Administration Office Building in Raymond.

We are still working hard to raise money for our fellow classmate Melissa Janson, who is in dire need of a bone marrow transplant. Donation cans are still available around campus.

At the beginning of February, ASG senators will begin selling LUV POPS. These are heart-shaped suckers that only cost twenty-five cents. This will also benefit Melissa Janson's bone marrow transplant fund. So look for these LUV POPS around campus during February.

Food Service Committee asks for your help in improving the cafeteria. Once a month a suggestion box will be available to try to meet the needs of you, the students. Traffic Appeals Committee is also open to appeal cases of any traffic violation on campus.

If you the students would like to voice your opinions, ASG meets every Tuesday at 3:00 in Beemon 2

Entertainment Review

From the pages of a San Francisco newspaper's story of San Francisco fire fighters who had shown a concern or "doubt" about a local "fire" that burned down a house, to the divorce of Robin Williams and Sally Fields, comes the hilariously funny movie, Mrs. Doubt fire.

The movie opens up with Williams doing only what Williams does best, and that is act like someone rather than himself. But, because of a flaw in the understanding of his lack of mature humor during a cartoon he is doing by the producer, he quits. From that point he finds out about his immaturity and unfatherly like conduct, and Boom his wife asks him for a divorce.

Williams then finds the time he has to spend with his children constantly on the decline, so he applies for the position of housekeeper for his divorced wife and children.

His experiences send him on a rollercoaster of being a man and most of the time a woman.

The plot is easy to understand, and for the most part you won't care much about it, because you spend most of your time laughing and not looking for one.

The movie has spent several weeks in either the top position in the Top 10 or at number two, and is the winner of The Golden Globe awards for Best Musical/Comedian Actor and Best Movie.

Mrs. Doubtfire is playing at Northpark 10 and Parkway Place 10 on Lakeside Drive. The cost is $5.50 after six and $3.50 before six.

Project Shadow

For the past six years, Hinds Community College in alliance with Jackson's Business of Professional Women Organization, has hosted "Project Shadow." Project Shadow is a project which allows students to come face to face with the career world and the faces surrounding it.

Along with hosting the project, Hinds is now also hosting a class. The course will give students a chance to research their chosen field(s) of study so that they not only have an understanding of the knowledge necessary to succeed in their chosen field (s), but also to have an understanding of the way things work in a business like atmosphere.

The class helps college students build a basis in which to build off of, and then allows them to use that basis to their advantage once they have gotten their degree.

The class is taught by Kristi Sather-Smith of the Biology Department. The class currently has around 70 students, but has the capacity of holding 90. The class has students from all campuses of Hinds participating, and the class meets on particular dates only.

EDWARDS SCORES—Latina Edwards of Little Rock, Arkansas, forward for the Hinds Community College women's basketball team, hits the basket during the Hinds vs. Southwest ballgame on the Utica Campus. Hinds defeated Southwest 77-51 with Edwards scoring 33 points in the game. The Hinds women's team is 13-3 overall and 3-2 in the South Division of the JUCO league. The Hinds men's team is 10-6 overall and also 3-2 in division play. (HCC photo by Doug Rummells)

HCC basketball teams prepare for tournament

With only a couple of games to play in regular season, the Hinds Community College women's basketball team is getting ready for the South Division Tournament that will be played at Southwest Community College February 14-17.

Hinds women's coach Lester Owens commented, "we have not played good all year but we have played good in spots and we are going into the tournament to win it."

The Hinds' Lady Bulldogs are 17-6 overall at the present time and are 5-5 in South Division play with two division games left to play. Leading for Hinds in scoring is Latina Edwards of Little Rock, Arkansas with a 24.5 average and she is followed by Kimberly Dent of Vicksburg with a 15.0 average.

The same two are also leading in rebounds with Edwards having a 12.0 average and Dent follows with a 10.5 average.

The Hinds men's team has a 12-11 overall record and is 4-6 in division play with two regular games to play in division play before the South

Division Tournament.

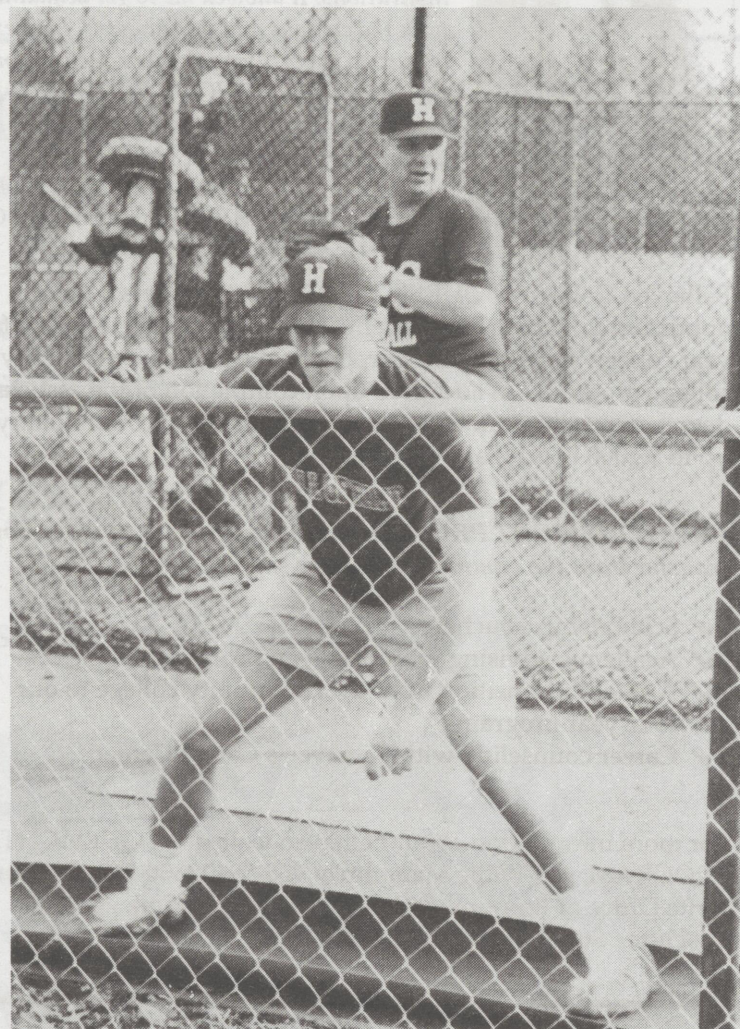

Hinds head coach Joe Nelson feels that several close losses and some controversial calls would have put the Bulldogs with a better record as they prepare for tournament play. Nelson remarked "Our big problem is being only eight or nine players deep and with this fouls create problems."

Leading the men's team in scoring is Mark Davis of Meadville with a 17.2 average, Anthony Johnson of Alexandria, Louisiana with a 16.3 average and Rico Passmore of Riverdale with a 14.1 average. Leading in rebounds is Larry Ferguson of Vicksburg with a 5.2 average.

Looking to the South Division Tournament coming up at Southwest Coach Nelson remarked. "Hinds is the underdog to look at in the tournament and even though we have lost to quite a few teams we can play with the best of them on any given night. Basketball players are like a good hand of poker, you have got to have some good pairs before you're going to win."

Interactive network created by colleges

Mississippi's 15 community colleges have announced they will install the state's first totally interactive communications network. The Community College Network, CCN, will link the colleges with each other, the University of Mississippi Medical Center, and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State University.

Dr. Eddie Smith, chairman of the Mississippi Community College Foundation, told a news conference in Jackson, "This may be Mississippi's most important educational development. It marks our state as an educational leader and it shows that we are using the marvelous technology of a space age society to make dramatic improvements in Mississippi education. CCN will enable our best teachers to deliver instruction at multiple locations, and it will allow Mississippi public schools and colleges to interact with educational institutions anywhere in the world. It will be very practical for our German class to emanate from Berlin and be delivered simultaneously in Scooba, Decatur, Biloxi, and a host of other sites."

CCN will have full motion, totally interactive, two-way audio and video communications. Each of the 15 community colleges will initially have one interactive classroom equipped with a minimum of three large television monitors and supporting technology. Audio and video signals are digitized and transmitted over existing copper telephone circuits. Mike Miller of South Central Bell said, "The technology is so interactive that you can do anything except shake hands over long distances in Mississippi or around the world."

CCN is an extension of the Mississippi Rural Health Corps, an initiative to improve rural health services in Mississippi. Dr. Clyde Muse, chairman of the Rural Health Committee of the Foundation said, "In 40 years in public education, I have not seen a more important development than this dramatic production of technology into teaching and learning. Through our connections with the Extension Service and the Medical Center, we will be able to immediately offer advanced degrees at community college locations. We will be able to vastly increase our output of nursing and allied health professionals."

Dr. Hiram Palmertree, director of the Extension Service, noted that, "The Extension Service plans to use CCN to deliver a wide variety of community information and educational services in such areas as farm safety, disease prevention, agricultural technology, and other courses that would otherwise be unavailable in rural areas."

He further stated, "The partnership between the colleges and the Extension Service is unprecedented in America. It is the kind of combined effort, capitalizing on technology, that Mississippi must have to make real educational and economic progress."

The Rural Health Corps was organized in 1992 for the purpose of improving rural health services. It is a joint project of the Mississippi State Department of Health, the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, and the Mississippi Community College Foundation.

Most of the funding for the $1.3 million project is being provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Private partners in the initiative include the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, Mississippi Health Care Association, Mississippi Nurses Association, Mississippi Organization for Associate Degree Nursing, and the Southwest Mississippi Regional Medical Center.

According to Dr. F. E. Thompson, Mississippi's chief health officer, "We must embrace this technology to keep cost down and to provide basic care."

He commended Mississippi's community colleges for their leadership in implementing this state-of-the-art communication system.

Clemson University hosts Lendon Players

The Hinds Community College Lendon Players recently participated in the American College Theatre Association's Regional Festival, which was held at Clemson University in Clemson, South Carolina on February 5.

The Lendon Players got to the regionals because of their performance of "Smoke on the Mountain" at the American College Theatre Festival state festival, which was held at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College Jefferson Davis Campus November 11-14, a performance that brought the audience to their feet.

If selected from the regional festival, the Lendon Players will then be off to Washington D.C. to participate in the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival in April.

Along with Hinds, was the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, University of North Carolina at Wilmington, University of Miami, North Kentucky University, and Centre University in Kentucky. This makes Hinds the only state college or university in Mississippi, and the only community college to participate in the festival.

In addition to the show being nominated, three members of the cast were nominated for the Irene Ryan Scholarship Award.

The three cast members chosen were: Mitchell Moore, Jennifer Taylor, and Christopher Boggs.

All three competed against hundreds of other nominees for one of two $750 scholarships. If any of the three are selected as one of the two semifinalist, then they will compete for a $2500 scholarship at the Irene Ryan National Evening of Scenes.

The cast for "Smoke on the Mountain" is: Mitchell Moore, Christopher Boggs, Jennifer Taylor, Kimberly Barfield, Tim Walsh, Leslie Thompson, Bridget Reilly, David Harris, and Canady Vance.

The show is directed by Denise Halback, and is assisted by David Hawkins as technical director and Robert Lee as musical director.

DECA holds conference

Students from 16 area high schools converged on the Raymond campus Friday, Feb. 4 for the annual District I DECA Conference. Marketing Management Technology and Fashion Merchandising Technology students served as campus hosts, further developing their leadership and professional skills through Delta Epsilon Chi.

MMT and FMT students were able to help high school advisors run contests, help judges with timing and generally be good-will ambassadors to approximately 250 district-wide high school students.

This was just one of many leadership opportunities available to Marketing Management Technology students. They also participate in their own statewide competition in such areas as: General Marketing, General Merchandising, Entrepreneurship, Advertising, Sales Representative, Human Resource Management and other career competency areas.

MMT is a two-year career program which offers a well-rounded education in Marketing Management. Students graduate with an AAS degree and go to work in direct sales, retail management, product distribution, as well as ultimately owning their own businesses.

Gallery exhibition

"Rites of Passage", an exhibit by Gayle McCarty, director of the Marie Hull Gallery, will be on display in the Gallery March 1-31.

The exhibit is a last minute scheduled event due to the cancelling of an already scheduled show. McCarty had no plans to bring the show to Hinds this semester, immediately after showing it at Jones Community College, which opened January 31 and will close February 18, but has decided to do so.

"Rites of Passage" which is a series meant to tell of different events and struggles that have faced women throughout the ages. The series takes images of ancient artist and applies to them the emotions of the earliest women in history, "Venus of Willendorf".

Thigpen selected 1994 Miss Hinds

Hinds Sophomore Tisha Thigpen of Laurel is one step closer to Atlantic City, New Jersey, by being crowned as Miss Hinds 1994. She will be representing Hinds in the upcoming Miss Mississippi Pageant in Vicksburg this summer.

Other winners include; Carissa McGraw of Braxton - first runner-up, Tina Miller of Jackson - second runner-up, and Bethany Ates of Magee - third runner-up.

Thigpen won the talent competition by singing Whitney Houston's smash hit, "I Have Nothing," while Ates won the swimsuit portion of the pageant.

Thigpen is the daughter of Ralph and Pearl Thigpen, and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, President's and Dean's List, and Who's Who. She was recently selected to represent the sophomore class as a 1993 Homecoming Maid, and was chosen as a class favorite for the 1993-94 school year.

Judges for the pageant were Alice Smith of Jackson, Kit Axtell of Jackson, Gilda Holbrook of Jackson, Norman Ford of Vicksburg, and Wayne Sutter of Vicksburg.

Serving as Mistress of Ceremonies was Melanie Christopher of WJTV Channel 12 News, and serving as Pageant Director, for the 35th year in a row was Mrs. Anna Bee. Mrs. Vashti Muse served as Judge's Hostess while Bob Hodges served as Assistant Director and Jack Hyte served as Sound Coordinator.

Staging and lighting was done by Hinds Circle K Club.

PTK Chapter receives honors

The Raymond Campus chapter of Phi Theta Kappa recently was recognized during the annual Phi Theta Kappa Regional Convention, which was held on February 20 in Cain Hall.

During the convention, the "Gamma Lambda" chapter received the Four Star Award for their ability to successfully complete the requirements for this honor.

Last year, the chapter received the "Three Star Chapter Award," and when asked about the accomplishment of this year's chapter, Cliff Nelson, Co-Director of the chapter, said "This is a great honor, and hopefully next year we will achieve Five Star Chapter status."

In addition to receiving the "Four Star Chapter" award, the "Gamma Lambda" chapter also received the Mississippi-Louisiana Hallmark Fellowship Award, as well as a position in the Phi Theta Regional Office.

The chapter inducted 141 new members behind the support of Dr. Clyde Muse, family and friends who were in attendance. There were no guest speakers; instead, they presented the history of Phi Theta Kappa, which was started back in 1918. Since, the Gamma Lambdas have established themselves as the oldest charter in Mississippi since 1936.

Now, Phi Theta Kappa is spread throughout the country, including Germany and Canada, and place emphasis on excellence.

A reception honoring the inductees followed the program.

What If

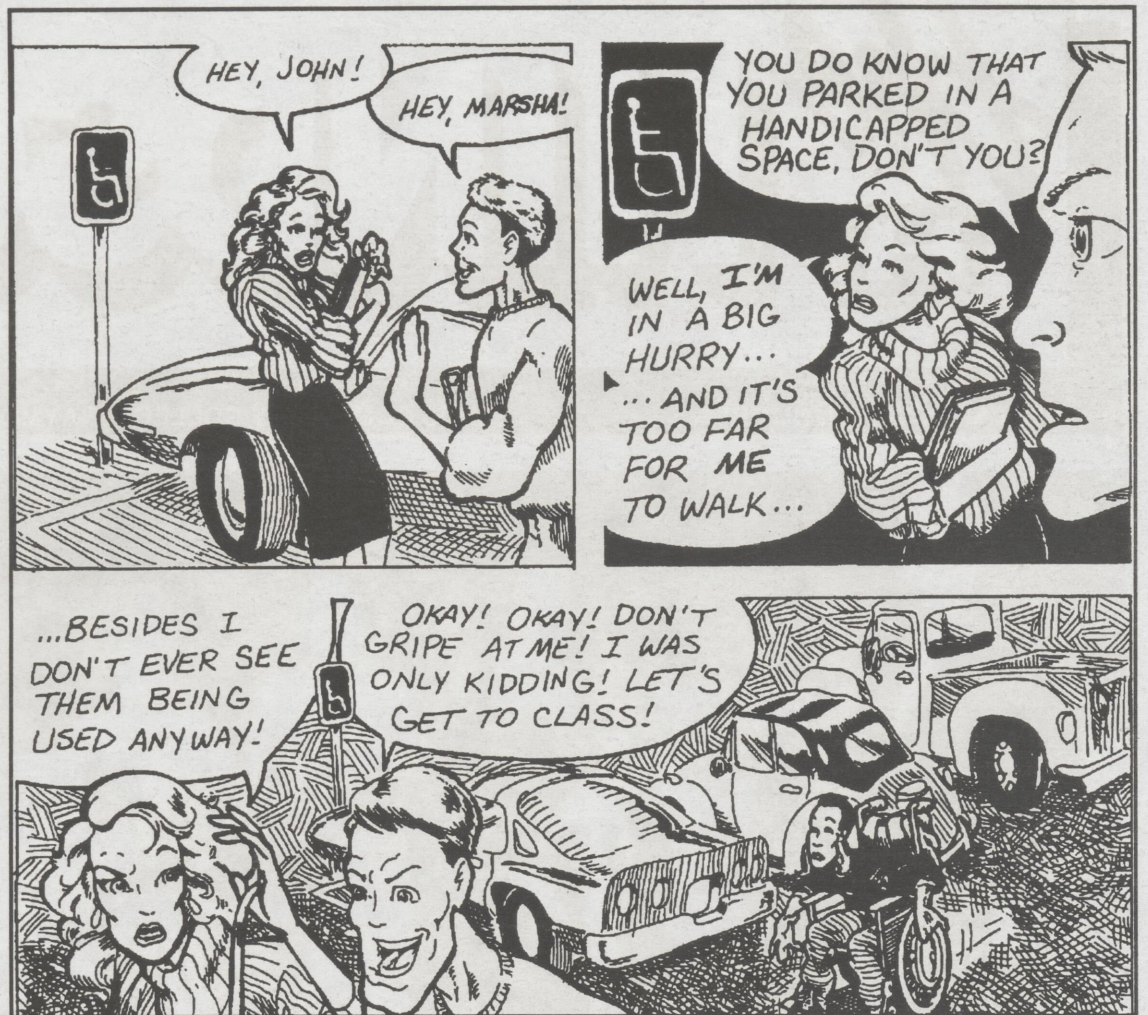

Have you ever wondered, and I'm sure you have, about "what if?" What if you had done this or you had done that, would things have gone better or would you have been better? With the controversy over the Harding/Kerrigan incident, it hit me amusingly, that this isn't just a media hype of who did what, and who is to blame, but who will be remembered for winning the top prize or possibly winning at someone else's expense. Unfortunately this also takes place in the "real world of Hinds" and life itself.

I have seen a lot of people lately come into class right before a test chanting the ancient ritual "I didn't get in until late last night so I didn't have a chance to study", and then, boom, the teacher puts the test in front of them, and they respond by saying "we didn't cover that, why is it on the test?" When in actuality they were asleep so they didn't hear the teacher, or probably didn't study enough, because of this or that.

Also, when it comes to failing at something, it is almost a given for some people to blame their failure on someone else, instead of themselves, the one person who holds the key that unlocks a thousand doors, in their own hand, and no matter what the situation can always come out on top no matter the results.

Don't get me wrong however, because I'm not saying you will always win the award, but what I am saying is that no matter what the results are, you will always be a victor of pride, sportsmanship, and honor. Ironically, however, you will have this longer than any plastic or metal figure that sticks to the base of the trophy which sits on your dresser for the whole world to never see.

So, if you don't pass the test, ask yourself why "you" flunked, not what if the teacher would have done this, then I would have done better on the test. Also, remember that no trophy on the face of this earth will ever last as long, or even be seen by anyone ever again as will the respect you have for yourself.

26 year old letter found

Dr. Clyde Muse recently presented Martha Womack Lightsey with a letter written by Lightsey and four Hinds classmates while they were sophomores here at the Hinds in 1968. The letter, which was hidden by the co-eds in the ceiling of the Raymond Campus Credit Union Office, lists the students' predictions concerning careers, marriage, children, and appearance.

Also listed are descriptions of 1968 clothing worn by the students. Lightsey's late 60's description of herself in the letter reveals a "red, yellow, and navy plaid tent dress; navy scotch-grain loafers; a Fellowship of Christian Athletes pin and a medium-length flip."

The envelope bears an 8-cent stamp and the address of the students' parents. Lightsey said, "We put our parents' address on the letter because we decided they probably weren't going to move anytime in the future."

The office where the letter was found in early January by Hinds maintenance staff members, was used as the Women's Associated Student Government Office. Lightsey served as the president at the time. Others mentioned in the letter are former students Karen Kainz, Mary Anne Sullivan, Judy Hand, and Rickey Ricks.

Entertainment Review

Before his death in 1989, Lane Frost was out there riding the biggest and toughest bulls, while at the same time setting record after record each time he entered the arena.

As the drama and excitement built around this incredible bull rider, with one fall the excitement died. The death of Frost closed one of the greatest chapters ever written on bull riding.

Now, this chapter has been reopened through the direction of John Avildson and the cast of 8 Seconds. The cast includes Jackson native Cynthia Geary of Northern Exposure, and Luke Perry of Beverly Hills 90210.

Perry, who plays Frost, does everything possible to present the audience with the life struggle of Frost by actually riding the bucking bulls. Perry also gives his character justice in this almost storyless, yet dramatic story, by not trying to show Frost as a saint but instead as a real person. However that attempt takes a little while to develop.

Frost, like many people in society, just wants to be the best he can be on the rodeo circuit, and does a pretty good job of it, that is with the help of his partner, Tuff Hedeman (Stephen Baldwin).

While on the circuit early in his career, Frost meets up with a female rider, who is a barrel racer named Kellie, played by Geary. The relationship is almost too perfect to really exist, and later finds itself being tested. What happens, well you will have to go see it to find out.

As for what happens to Frost, is already known, but to see what comes from his death is well worth viewing the end.

Eight Seconds is currently being played at Parkway Place 10, and is rated PG-13 for profanity, violence, and mild sexual content.

A. L. Denton Gymnasium will be taking on new role

The old Denton Gym on the Raymond Campus is taking on a new appearance and will also take on a new role by springtime. According to Troy Henderson, vice president for physical plant and auxiliary services, the 57-year old building will take under its roof the entire student enrollment services network.

"Renovations for Denton Gym are 80 percent complete at this time," he says.

The old gym floor where championship teams once played will become home court for advance registration, student housing, the dean of students, a testing room, a conference room, and academic and vocational-technical counseling. The sturdy walls that once echoed with the cheering of excited spectators will be lined with offices offering the various student services.

The basement, which once housed coaches' offices and was familiar to every student enrolled in a physical education class, will soon become the site of the admissions and records office. The other downstairs space will be used for storage for the business office, according to Henderson.

Open house for the renovated facility will be announced at a later date.

Student art in Hull Gallery

The annual Commercial and Fine Arts Student Show will be held in Marie Hull Gallery April 11-14.

An independent judge will evaluate the work done by each student, and will determine the winners. Awards for first, second, third, and Best in Show, will be presented at the reception, April 11, from 6:30 PM until 8:00 PM.

The categories in which students can enter are: drawings, design, commercial art, graphics, ceramics, painting, and sculpture. The entries must be turned in to any of the art faculty no later than 1 PM on Wednesday, April 6.

The show is open to all full time students, however, the work being entered must have been done during the time the student was attending Hinds Community College, and all art work must be ready to exhibit.

Former student hits the music charts

It's a long way from the small town of Star, Mississippi to the top of the Billboard Country Music Charts, but Faith Hill admits she has always known music would be her life.

The dream of "making records" has finally come true for Hill after her recent single "Wild One" went all the way to the No. 1 spot on the charts during the last week of December 1993.

"I didn't know it would reach No. 1 when I recorded it, but I did know that it would be a song today's young people would like," Hill said, continuing, "It's about growing up, about going through different stages in life."

Hill, who was born in Jackson, began singing as a 3-year-old in the community of Edinburg in rural Leake County. At age 6, her family moved to Ridgeland where she lived a few years before moving to Star in Rankin County.

"By age 11, I was singing all the time at Star Baptist Church and anywhere I could," the 25-year-old performer said about the place where her family still worships on Sundays.

Hill graduated from Mc-Laurin High School in 1986 and enrolled that fall at Hinds Community College while also maintaining a busy schedule with her own country music band.

While studying liberal arts courses at HCC, she became involved in the Hinds Connection student recruiting group and in the Baptist Student Union.

Former BSU Director B. J. Frew said of Hill, "Faith had a caring way about her. She was always interested in others — she made friends easily."

Frew said that everyone who knew Hill at that time knew her ambition was to "get into" country music. "She had one dream, and we all knew she would be successful at what she had decided to do with her life."

Hill said of her Hinds' experiences, "I made a lot of friends at Hinds and met some nice people. When I wasn't in the classroom, though, I spent most of my time with my band."

She said, "It was while I was performing with the band that I realized I needed to be in Nashville — I knew I had to get there."

With the support of family and friends, Hill made the move to Music City in 1987, and while working from one odd job to the next, she was offered a position with the Gary Morris Publishing Agency as a secretary.

After songwriter David Chase heard Hill singing one night while she was working late, Chase played a tape of her voice for Morris who told her to "get out from behind that desk and get busy."

She then was given the opportunity to record demos for Reba McIntyre's company Star Struck, and during this time, performed with songwriter Gary Borr at Nashville's Blue Bird Cafe. Hill just happened to be in the right place at the right time while singing at the Blue Bird and was heard by Warner Bros. representative Martha Sharp.

"Martha said she thought the company would be interested in working with me, and that's where the record deal began," she said.

Along with all the perks, Hill is quick to point out that becoming a country music star takes a lot of hard work.

She said, "There's a lot involved in this business that people don't realize. It's not always glamorous, and it's hard for me to be away from my family."

Her family, she said, has been one of the biggest influences in her life besides the musical influences provided by people such as Patsy Cline, Amy Grant, and Reba McIntyre.

"I give my mother a lot of the credit for my singing because she would pay me 25 cents as a child to sing for relatives at family reunions or when guests would visit our house," Hill said, adding, "I also remember coming home after school and playing Reba's records over and over until suppertime."

Hill began touring in February with McIntyre and John Michael Montgomery, a tour that started in Huntsville, Alabama and will travel across the U. S. She also was invited to appear at the Grand Ole Opry in December 1993 where she performed her hit song and another single from her debut disc "Take Me As I Am." "Singing at the Opry was just incredible. I was so honored that they invited me to perform," she said.

Warner Bros. Producer Scott Hendricks, who produced the disc, said there is something uniquely special about working with Hill.

He said, "Besides her considerable talent and voice, I think part of the magic is in her radiant personality and the fact that it is real. That's what drew me to this project."

Hill explained that part of her enthusiasm about her work stems from the current popularity of country music.

"It's really an exciting time to be in country music. There are a lot of different styles to choose from, and the music has a positive influence. People like what the words have to say," she explained.

When asked if she feels there is a specific purpose to her music, Hill replied, "God gave me a talent to sing for others' enjoyment and to choose songs that say something. I truly believe that music makes a difference in the world around us — it makes us feel."

Hinds students honored during Awards Day

Hinds Community College Awards Day, which honored 591 President's Scholars and 1199 Dean's Scholars, was held February 24 in Cain Hall on the Raymond Campus of Hinds.

The program honoring the 1790 students was sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa, the international junior college honor society. PTK has been honoring and recognizing the achievements of students at two year colleges since 1918.

Awards Day was instituted at Hinds in 1979 by Hinds President, Dr. Clyde Muse and the Special Activities Committee as a means of recognizing the superior achievement in scholarship.

Students named to the President's List must have achieved and maintained a 4.0 grade point average for a minimum of 12 semester hours, while those named to the Dean's list must have a 3.5 to 3.9 cumulative grade point average also for a minimum of 12 semester hours.

The Hinds Community College Phi Theta Chapters sponsoring this year's program were: Gamma Lambda Chapter - Raymond Campus; Alpha Zeta Omega - Jackson Campus - Academic/Technical chapter; Alpha Iota - Nursing/Allied Health chapter; Alpha Omicron Omega - Rankin Campus chapter; Alpha Beta Xi - Utica Campus chapter. The Raymond Campus chapter, chartered in 1936, is the oldest charter in Mississippi.

The guest speaker for the Awards Day program was Dr. Kent Wyatt, President of Delta State University for the past 19 years. A graduate of Delta State, Wyatt became the university's first full-time Alumni Director, and subsequently served as executive assistant to two college presidents before assuming his present position. He received his advanced degrees at the University of Southern Mississippi (M.S.) and University of Mississippi (Ph.D.), and studied further at

Harvard University.

It is always a pleasure to be invited to Hinds Community College, especially to take part in an occasion that recognizes those students whose academic achievements have brought honor to themselves, their parents, and to this fine institution. While history has taught us to never rest on our laurels, I think it would be appropriate if we steal just a few moments to bask in the glory of your accomplishments. By doing so, we demonstrate the importance we attach to the attainment of your academic excellence.

While an Honors Day ceremony is designed to pay tribute primarily to the students receiving their awards, I think they would be the first to recognize that the honor is not theirs alone.

Credit must go to the institution itself for nurturing an environment that places academic achievement in a position of honor. And that credit must begin with your president, Dr. Muse, a professional educator and long-time friend whom I have respected and admired for many years.

Credit also goes to your trustees and members of the administration for their support of academic excellence.

As a university administrator, I am quite aware of the role good teaching plays in higher education. Without good teachers, none of the rest would matter. We could have the brightest students, the newest buildings, and the latest equipment, but it would mean nothing. The teachers pull it all together, and you have excellent teachers at Hinds Community College. Dr. Muse has expressed his pride in the Hinds faculty to me on numerous occasions. I have also had the opportunity to observe the quality of a Hinds education first-hand. During my tenure as president of Delta State University, we have been privileged to have a number of your graduates attend our University to complete their education. Hinds Community College graduates have served in many leadership positions in our Student Government Association at Delta State - they have served as editors of our campus newspaper and yearbook - they have been elected to campus-wide positions and honors - and they have played important roles on our athletic teams. We have 103 graduates of Hinds Community College attending Delta State this semester, and we wish we had a thousand and three. Of those currently in attendance, six are recipients of department head scholarships - which are awarded on the basis of academic ability. These current students - and those who preceded them - have compiled records that have brought honor not only to themselves, but to Hinds Community College as well.

If there are persons in this audience who are prouder today than the students receiving these honors, they are the parents and grandparents. I know how you feel. I have two daughters - and while their mother deserves all the credit for them - we both swell with pride over their accomplishments. As a parent, I also know that you had to sacrifice to make this day possible. Not only did you make financial sacrifices, but you also sacrificed your time to instill in your sons and daughters the importance of setting high goals and always doing their best. This day is also for parents.

Having spent my life as an educator, it has been my good fortune to see many students succeed in their quests to become college graduates and to gain success in their chosen career fields. On the other hand, I have seen others fall by the wayside. What separated one from the other? What caused one to succeed and the other to fail? Success or failure cannot always be tied to opportunity or intelligence, or to any single factor. I suspect there are as many reasons for success or failure as there are people. However, I think there are some common denominators as well, and I have been intrigued by some of the definitions I have heard concerning success and failure, and I would like to share them with you for whatever benefit they may be.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who certainly enjoyed financial success, said "The secret of success is to do the common things uncommonly well." That makes sense, and I suspect that all of us know people who have succeeded through this philosophy - people who wanted to be the very best in their profession.

Charles Evans Hughes, the American jurist, warned us that: "One of the most important lessons of life is that success must continually be won and is never finally achieved." I hear him saying to us that if we are to continue to be successful that we must continue to strive, that we cannot afford to rest on our laurels. As athletes learn early in their careers: "You are only as good as your last game."

Woodrow Wilson told us that the world is interested in results, not excuses or hearing the hardships that have been encountered.

President Wilson said in his statement that: "The world is not interested in the storms you encountered, but did you bring in the ship?"

A.T. Stewart, the "merchant prince" of New York noted the importance of hard work. "No abilities," Stewart said, "however splendid, can command success without intense labor and persevering application." How true this is today.

There are many human examples to help us guide our lives toward success.

Perhaps you have heard the story of the boy who was so slow to learn that his parents thought he was abnormal, and his teachers called him a misfit. He was four years old before he could speak and seven before he could read. His classmates avoided him and seldom invited him to play. He failed his first college entrance exam at a college in Switzerland. A year later, he tried again. In time, the boy who got off to such a bad start managed to accomplish something in his life. In fact, his name is synonymous with intelligence. His name was Albert Einstein.

There was another young man who did not impress a lot of people in his young days. He was ill and unhappy through much of his short life. He was an orphan at the age of three and had to live with strangers. He developed a heart problem at the age of 17, and endured several other inherited physical weaknesses. He was kicked out of school, suffered from poverty, and had enjoyed no fame until his death at the age of 40. Yet, in the short space of 20 years, he gave the world articles, essays, and brilliant poetry. He wrote short stories and detective stories, and the original copy of one of his poems is valued today at more than $50,000. This man was Edgar Allen Poe.

Here are some other examples that provide us the encouragement to overcome disappointments and to stick to our dreams.

- Leo Tolstoy flunked out of college.

- Beethoven's music teacher once said of him: "As a composer, he is hopeless."

- When Thomas Edison was a boy, his teachers told him he was too stupid to learn anything.

- A newspaper editor fired Walt Disney because he had "no good ideas."

- Louis Pasteur was considered only a mediocre student by his chemistry professors at Royal College.

- Winston Churchill had to repeat the sixth grade.

- And then there was the executive for Decca Records Company in 1962 who told four long-haired young men from England to "go back to Liverpool. You'll never make it - singing in groups of four is out." However, that group of four young singers believed in what they were doing and the Beatles went on to become perhaps the most famous recording artists in the history of the world.

There are two recent examples in the sports world of athletes overcoming disappointment and handicaps to rise to the top. If you have followed the current Winter Olympics, you may have seen Dan Jansen - a speed skater from the United States - swell with pride as the gold medal was placed around his neck and The Star Spangled Banner played in the background. What you may not know is that Dan Jansen failed in three previous Olympics to win the gold medal and was not considered the favorite this year. While others may not have given him much hope, one person did know that Jansen could win - and that was the most important person – Dan Jansen himself.

This next story provides a ray of hope to maturing golfers like President Muse and me. Johnny Miller was one of the world's top golfers 20 years ago. But age has a way of reducing the steadiness of hand, and of nerves, that it takes to be a winning golfer at the professional level. In recent years, Miller devoted much of his golfing activity to occasional rounds with friends and family members, and to doing commentary on television. But a few weeks back, Miller decided to enter the PGA Tournament at Pebble Beach against the world's best young golfers. He thought he could win one more time, but he was the longest of long shots. Johnny Miller won the tournament, and the $225,000 check that went with it.

Stories like these give us pride and hope. If you had a poor start like Einstein or Edison – if you suffered countless hardships like Edgar Allen Poe – or if you were discouraged from following your dreams like Tolstoy, Beethoven, Walt Disney, Louis Pasteur, Winston Churchill or the Beatles, you can still be a winner. It's never too late – Dan Jansen and Johnny Miller both proved that in recent days.

We are fortunate to live in a country that will give us as many chances as we are bold and determined enough to take, and a country where our goals and aspirations are limited only by the restraints we place upon ourselves.

By your presence here today, you have already demonstrated that you know something about success. But you can't stop here; you must continue to work hard and to do your best. If you think the accomplishments of Einstein, Poe or Edison are far beyond your grasp, just keep this in mind: at this point in your life, you are far ahead of where they were at your age.

In closing, I would like to say a few words about your future plans. Many of you will be completing your college career today, and many will further your education in the years to come. For those of you continuing your education, I want to say that we would like to have you at Delta State University this fall.

But no matter whether you choose us or another university, make sure you receive the things you are looking for. One of the most important of these is of a personal nature. You have the need; indeed you have the right to be treated as an individual. You have the right to have your professors know your name and care about your progress and personal needs. You have the right to expect academic quality from the programs of the university you choose. You have proven that you are students of academic ability – you deserve no less from the university you select.

Today I would ask all of you in this audience to join in a partnership with those of us in education to move this state forward by our commitment to all levels of higher education. We are striving to make Mississippi a state that our young people will not leave. We are working to make the opportunities attractive enough to keep the brightest minds in Mississippi as our hope for the future. You, here today are our hope for generations to come.

In closing, I offer you my heartiest congratulations and best wishes for your continued success in the future.

Trainer aids Hinds' athletes

Athletes at Hinds Community College are in good hands with trainer Bryan Johnson whose main concern is rehabilitating those who have been injured on the playing field, in the gym, or on the track.

One of three

Johnson, one of only three nationally-certified athletic trainers in the Mississippi community college system, said he has always liked sports and wanted to work in that field.

He said, "I wasn't good enough to play, but I knew I wanted to stay in something that involved sports. I wanted to help others."

A typical day for Johnson begins in the morning treating athletes for injuries through use of the whirlpool and exercise. His work in the afternoon includes taping the injured athletes' ankles, wrists, and elbows, while also providing added treatment to those who have severe injuries.

Johnson, 25, is also responsible for several student trainers who make sure athletes have everything they need during fall and spring sports practices. He also attends practices and games in case there are new injuries that need immediate attention.

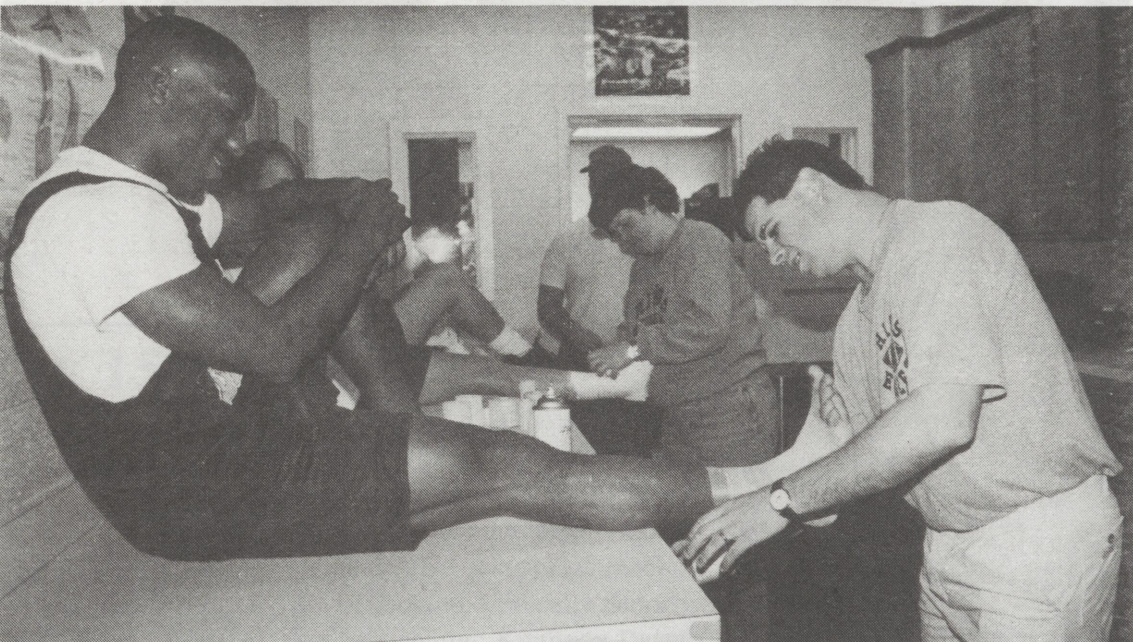

Currently working on a master's degree in health promotion and exercise science, Johnson holds a bachelor of science degree in sports medicine from the University of Southern Mississippi. A graduate of Neshoba Central High School in Philadelphia, he received a liberal arts degree from East Central Community College in Decatur.

Before his employment at Hinds, he was employed at Mississippi Sports Medicine in Jackson and at River City Physical Therapists in Vicksburg.

He is certified through the National Athletic Trainer Association (NATA) and is licensed by the Mississippi Athletic Trainer Association (MATA).

Johnson and his wife, Patti, are residents of Byram.

This will be a first for any school in Mississippi to hold this event. Best of all, is that it is free.

Lendon Players plan spring production

"Nobody comes near a dining room anymore. The thought of sitting down with a number of intelligent, attractive people to enjoy good food well cooked and properly served. ... That apparently doesn't happen anymore. Nowadays, people eat in the kitchen, living rooms, standing around balancing their plates like jugglers. Soon they will eat in their bathrooms. Well why not? Simplify the process." states Harvey in The Dining Room by A. R. Gurney.

The Dining Room, is the new production being performed by the Lendon Players. The play is told to us in the dining room by different families under different circumstances.

The play ranges from a child's birthday, all the way to an old man talking to his son about what he wants for his funeral. The time also ranges, from that of the 1930's up all the way until now.

The cast members for The Dining Room are as follows: Jennifer Taylor, Chuck Bishop, Keri Grayson, Mitchell Moore, Bridget Reilly, Jerry Farley, Kimberly Barfield, Tim Walsh, Jennifer Cohen, David Harris, Les Harvey, Karen Penson, and Jamie Bounds.

The Dining Room is set to open, April 27 at 7:30 PM, and will run through April 30. On April 28, there will be an interpreter for the hearing impaired.

The show is being directed by Denise Halbach with the assistance of David Hawkins, technical director.

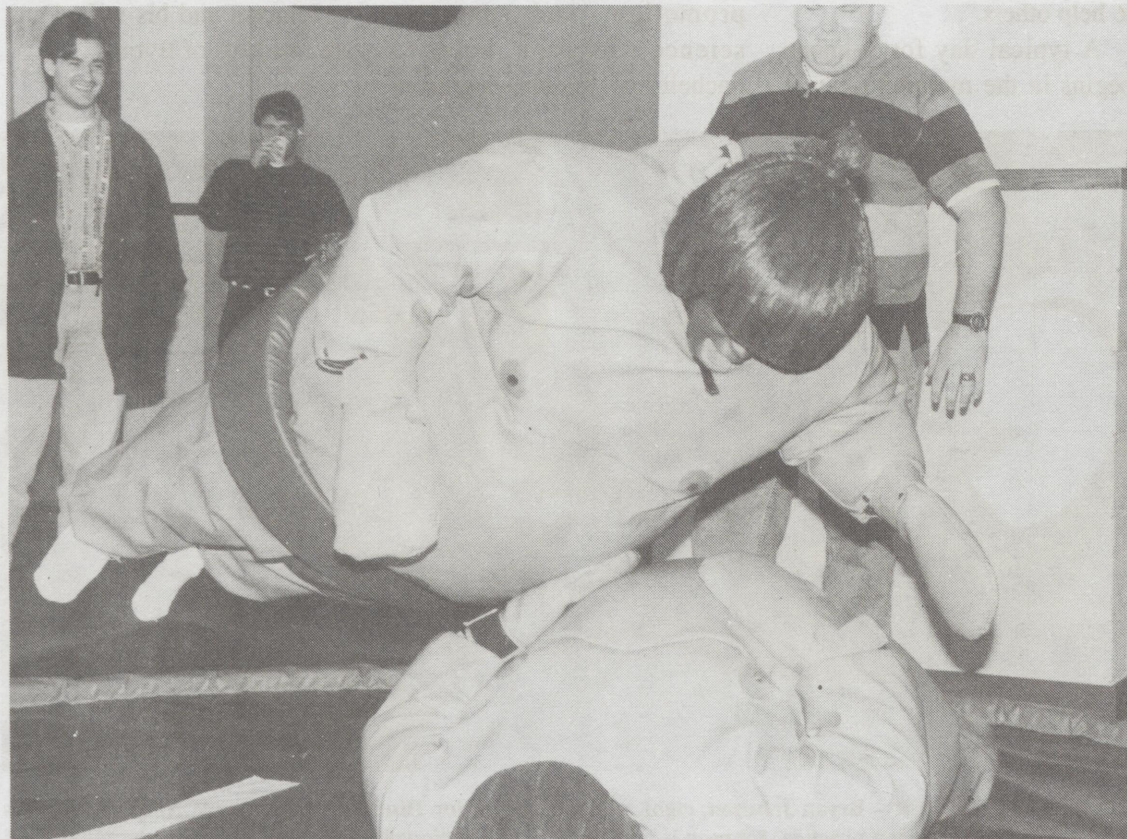

The show will be held in Brooks Theatre. The show is free to those with a student I. D. The cost for adults is $5.00, and $3.00 for children and other students.

Lendon Players receive honors

The Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival's 1994 National Selection Team toured eight regional festivals and selected six productions for the National Festival to be held in Washington D.C.

The Hinds Community College's Lendon Players were named as second alternates with their entry "Smoke On The Mountain."

In addition to this honor, the Lendon Players received four Honorable Merit Awards. These awards went to Denise Halbach for her directing, the Lendon Players for company/ensemble, Tim Walsh and Leslie Thompson for acting, and Robert Lee, Les Harvey, and Chuck Bishop for Music.

There was a reception that immediately followed the program.

Graduation Time

It's that time of the year again, in which students will trade in their book bags for sun glasses and sun tan lotion. It is also that time of the year in which sophomore students will be recognized for their outstanding efforts while here at Hinds.

On May 15, sophomores will put on their gown and tassel, so that they can walk across the stage in Mayo Field House to receive their Associate Degree from Dr. Clyde Muse.

Among these students will be those who will be graduating with honors - we will call these students, group one. These students will be graduating with honors because they have proven through hard work that the price of studying pays off.

Because of their high record of academic excellence, these sophomore standouts, each the best in their chosen fields, will be honored for all their efforts.

Those who will not be graduating with honors - the second group - deserve just as much recognition as those who will. These students have put a lot, if not more, effort into receiving their degree from Hinds. They have worked hard to accomplish this goal by complying with the required courses needed for the degree.

However, both groups of students have this common goal of graduating in mind, and both have succeeded in accomplishing it; therefore, making both groups well worth all the "Congratulations." and "We are so proud of you," that they will receive.

Both of these groups have proven themselves to be degree worthy, and both deserve all the praise and congratulations of both the student body and the faculty.

Entertainment Review

In a little town called Bedrock, during the time of friendly dinosaurs and houses made out of stone, with elephants that acted as the sink with their trunk as the water spout, and Brontosaurus that operated like elevators, lived the Flintstones.

As you know, they were a page right out of history, and that history is about to repeat itself, with Director Brian Levant's new movie, The Flintstones.

The film is due out Memorial Day Weekend with a cast that is headed up by John Goodman, who will play the part of guess who?

Fred Flintstone—that to the point and always arguing stone age flop.

Playing the part of Barney, is the man that could probably sing "I love you, you love me," better than that purple dinosaur that we all love so much, right. And the envelope please. And the winner is, Rick Moranis, the goof-ball scientist from the movie

"Honey I Shrunk The Kids" and "Honey I Blew Up The Kid."

Wilma, will be played by Elizabeth Perkins, Rosie O'Donnel will play Betty, and introducing as Fred's ornery mother-in-law, Pearl Slaghoople, is Elizabeth Taylor.

The puppet dinosaurs are from Jim Henson's Creature Shop, and the movie is made by Steven Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment.

As for the plot, well you will find out at the same time I will. All I know, is that it will follow the theme that the Flintstones have followed since they started out on T.V., and that is seeing how much chaos Fred and cause, and will Barney go along with whatever Fred cooks up.

No matter what the situation, this stone-age comedy is sure to be a great summer movie, but how great is up to you, but for now, it's "Yabba dabba do."

Presidential Speaking

by Dr. Clyde Muse

I appreciate the contribution that all faculty, staff, and students have made to our success this year. Hinds Community college exists for students. I Hope that your experiences here have been pleasurable and rewarding and that the excitement of learning will not fade. For those who have not finished their college's offerings in your course of study, I welcome your return to Hinds Community College to continue your studies with us. Whatever your future plans may be, I trust that you will continue your education – a life long process. At no time has it been more incumbent upon an individual to keep up with the rapidly changing needs of our society, to adjust to the demands of the job market, to upgrade old skills and to learn new ones, and to learn about other cultures and people. There is always more to be learned.

As the school year draws to a close, my wife, Vashti, and I have the pleasure of attending events which recognize the contributions and achievements of a great number of Hinds Community College students. As we meet with and speak to these students, we can't help but feel their pride and share their success. We know that Hinds Community College will always hold a special place in their memories, as it will ours.

Each year brings a new group of students, a more ambitious set of goals for the College, and a consistent display of hard work from our students, faculty, and staff as the College works to maintain its commitment to quality education.

I hope that all of you who are finishing your work with us will become active members of the Alumni Association. We would like to stay in touch. Best wishes for a good vacation.

ENGLISH GROUP STUDIES AT RAYMOND - Studying automotive technology through the HCC Resource and Coordinating Unit for Economic Development was this group from Bridgwater, England. When not in classes, the students, in Raymond for two weeks during April, were hosted by members of the RCU department in many tourism trips and activities

English students visit Hinds

RAYMOND - When John Evans began working with Bob Mullins on bringing a group of students from Bridgwater College in Bridgwater, England, for two of weeks at Hinds Community College, he had two goals in mind:

"We wanted the lads to study automotive mechanics from a different concept," said Evans, a senior lecturer at Bridgwater and one of four leaders of the 18-member group.

"And we wanted them to be exposed to an other culture."

Both goals were achieved, Evans said. It's a toss-up as to which was more successful.

"It turned out far better than we thought it would," Evans said. "The whole trip has turned out fantastic."

For the past two weeks, the 18 guests of Hinds Community College have been studying American electronic fuel-injection systems, and learning about the Deep South.

While the automotive differences have been mainly in the area of computers, the social differences have been... well, varied.

Bridgwater, Evans said, is "the second-fastest growing town in the United Kingdom" - an industrial town of 80,000-90,000 in southwest England. The college, similar to our community colleges, has about 5,000 students, 2,200 of them full time. The 14 students who made the trip range in age from 16 to 18, and all are studying auto mechanics.

As much as possible

Mullins, director of economic development at Hinds, organized things on this end, and he made sure they were exposed to as much of the Deep South as he could.

On the education front, that included trips to Blackwell Chevrolet, KLLM Trucking, and Packard Electric.

On the cultural front, it included a trip to New Orleans, to Vicksburg for Riverfest, to Clinton for the Brick Streets Festival, a night of bowling, go-kart racing, a crawfish boil, a shopping trip, a Jackson Generals baseball game.

You name it, they probably did it.

While the group enjoyed practically every thing it did, the fabled Southern hospitality made the deepest impression.

"It's unbelievable, the friendliness of the students here at Hinds and everywhere we went," Evans said. "People pass you on the street and speak - you wouldn't find that happening in Bridgwater. It's a nice campus where we are and a great place to work and learn, but it's very much a heads-down atmosphere on campus.

"The first night we were in our dormitory rooms here, there was a loud bang on the door and it was a group of students. We were afraid of a confrontation, but they were there to welcome us.

"It's been like that the whole fortnight," Evans added. "We've had great fun. Some of our lads don't want to go home."

Running second to Southern hospitality was the number and styles of student-owned cars.

Hugh Currell, the manager of the Bridgwater College motor vehicle workshop, said very few students had access to a car.

"For one thing, they can't get a license to drive until they're 17," Currell explained. "Those who do drive usually have only one car in their family. Here, our lads see all these students with cars, and they're absolutely gob smacked."

As for Southern cooking, opinions varied - from fantastic to horrible. All, however, agreed Mullins' gumbo was better than the gumbo they had in New Orleans.

Evans said as far as he was concerned, "This will be an annual event."

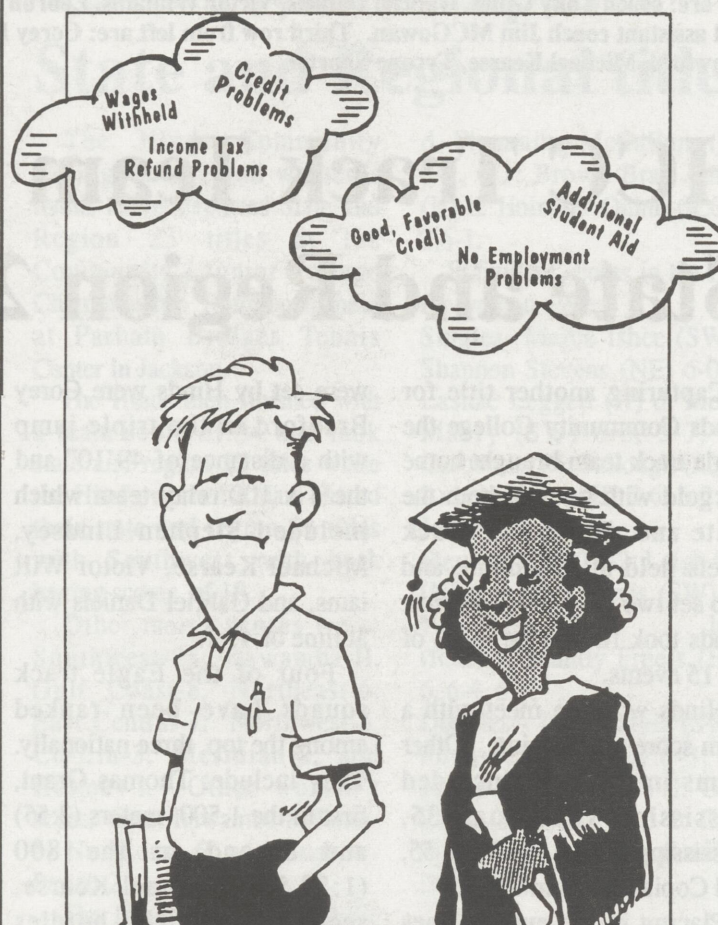

"I hope we can develop an interest in a group from Hinds coming to Bridgwater," he said. "But I've already started planning for another group from our college to come back over here.

"Some of our friends at home wanted to know, 'why Mississippi?' since it's not a major tourist area," he added. "From our point of view, that's what has made this trip so successful."

Chef adds flair to cafeteria —

by William Eaton

"What's for lunch?" barks a Hinds Community College faculty member as he steps up to the serving line in the staff dining room.

A white-garbed chef complete with tall chef's hat responds, "Today, we have broiled filet of flounder served over a vegetable medley, and red beans and rice."

"Give me the red beans and rice," replies the instructor, "I can never get it at home."

Shaking his head in disbelief at this selection, another faculty member steps up to the serving line: "The flounder please -looks like you've outdone yourself again, Christian!"

The staff at Hinds Community College Raymond Campus have been enjoying many similar gastronomical pleasures over the past year; pleasures that one would find difficult to match at any price in the Jackson area. The person responsible for this culinary feat is chef Christian Amelot, employed by Valley Innovative Management Services, the company contracted to provide meals for the students and staff at Hinds. In addition to his duties at Hinds, he also caters various events for Valley.

Christian was born in the La Ferte Bernard, France, a town located in the Province Perche, which lies between the provinces Normandy and Brittany, and which is famous for the percheron breed of draft horses. He finished high school at the age of sixteen and entered into culinary school at Savoie Leman, near the Swiss border, where he studied to be a chef and maitre d' for three years, learning all aspects of food service.

Two traditional French dishes chef Christian has offered to Hinds' staff are Poulet Cocotte Grand Mere (literally: "grandmother's chicken"), a country dish which is chicken served with a sauce made from white wine, fresh mushrooms, pearl onions, and bacon; and Vol Au Vent (literally: "A fly in the wind"), another chicken dish which consists of chicken and homemade dumplings served with a pastry shell and white sauce.

Chef Christian Amelot

The culinary school Christian attended operates a hotel and restaurant where students apply and perfect skills learned in school. Over the summer, students work as interns at Savoie Leman and at various hotels and restaurants throughout Europe.

"My first summer at school was spent working as a waiter at a five-star hotel in the town of La Baule, on the French Riviera of the Atlantic," the chef reflects. Two years later he worked in the pastry shop in the same hotel and perfected his talent as pastry chef.

Fortunate HCC staff members occasionally find the objects of this specialty waiting on the dessert shelves. These include cream puffs, and Mille Feuille ("a thousand leaves"), known as "Napoleon" in English-speaking countries. Another French dessert prepared by Christian is St. Tropezienne, consisting of yeast cake with vanilla cream covered with powdered sugar. But traditional French dishes are not the only fare produced by this culinary wizard.

"I am very open minded," says Christian, and proves it with such international treats as Cordon Bleu (more Swiss than French), sauerbraten with homemade sauerkraut (German), chicken and cheese chimichanga (Mexican), shrimp scampi with pasta (Italian), pasta with Alfredo sauce (Italian), and English trifle.

In 1972, while fulfilling the one-year military obligation required of all able-bodied French males, Christian served in the French navy and worked as the personal chef for the Foreign Minister in Paris.

"I had the honor of cooking for Henry Kissinger and his body guards," says the chef. "Man, those guys were big!"

Christian chanced upon an opportunity to come to the U.S. in 1984 while working at a restaurant in Marseilles. The owner of the restaurant sold it, bought another in Houston, Texas, and invited Christian to come with him.

"He told me that he was securing a work visa for me," says Christian, "but when I inquired with the immigration people, they said they had heard nothing!"

The end of his six-month tourist visa was approaching rapidly when he was contacted by a pastry chef acquaintance working at the Old Market in Highland Village in Jackson. He told Christian that the owners of Sun Dancer restaurant, Bill Latham and Al Roberts, were looking for a chef with Christian's skills and experience. "I met with the owners and they hired me. They agreed to sponsor me for a work visa and hired an attorney to handle the case." He served as a chef at Sun Dancer for three years.

His next employment was with Valley Food Services, a company which provides food services by contract to other institutions, and which is not called Valley Innovative Management Services. After stints with Valley as chef at a country club in North Carolina and St. Catherine's Village in Madison, Mississippi, Christian was offered the opportunity to come to Hinds Community College, a long time client of Valley, in January, 1993.

In a display of his creative talents, Christian has borrowed concepts from neighboring Louisiana to produce catfish Rockefeller, a dish similar to the oyster dish with the same name, in which catfish is served with a spinach topping, and a salmon and crawfish mousse. He often prepares the traditional Louisiana dishes, shrimp creole and gumbo.

"Louisiana cooking is very similar to the French style - they just use a lot more spice," laughs the chef.

His wife, Patricia, is chef and food services manager at River Oaks Hospital. They have two daughters, Anne, who has returned to France to finish her schooling, and Sophie, a student at Chastain School.

When asked about his dreams for the future, Christian replies, "I hope some day to own my own restaurant here in Mississippi, and I would like to share my culinary knowledge with those who would like to learn."

International visitors tour HCC Raymond Campus

The month of April saw a flurry of international activity on the Raymond Campus.

Early in the month a delegation representing the Uzbekistani consulate and several universities in the Republic of Uzbekistan (in the former Soviet Union) spent a day with Hinds Community College leaders to learn about education in the American two-year college. After College President Dr. Clyde Muse led the group in an orientation on the structure and programs of the College, they were taken on an orientation tour of the agriculture complex by Billie Banes, director of programs at the complex.

The visit was coordinated by Dr. Ron Brown of Mississippi State University. During the last two weeks of the month, the HCC Resource and Coordinating Unit for Economic Development (RCU) hosted a group of a dozen British teenagers who came to the States to learn about auto fuel injection systems.
